53 Hurt as 11 Cars Careen Off Rails in Milwaukee County

Telephone Poles Toppled by Train; Most Injuries Minor

Milwaukee — A cross-country train speeding many of its 497 passengers toward vacations suddenly began to rock and sway Thursday, and 11 cars careened off the rails. Fifty-three persons were injured.

The last six cars of the Milwaukee Road Olympian Hiawatha whiplashed off the tracks and slid down a 20-foot embankment as the train raced in to southern Milwaukee county at 90 miles an hour. About 1,000 feet ahead, the diesel engine ground to a stop, five more cars tilting off the rails. All the cars remained upright.

Head brakeman E. C. Holden, 34, of Milwaukee, said derailling action was started just before the first cars left the tracks. "The train just started to shake," he said. "The thirteenth car went into the ditch and everything followed. The rest of the train just wriggled and bumped along."

Mr. and Mrs. Hy Kublin of Chicago, who were in a dome observation car watching the engine, said the first thing they noticed "was a tremendous cloud of dust."

"Then the cars began to sway and go off the tracks, skimming along the embankment. They sheared off the telephone poles alongside the tracks. Maybe it was those poles that kept the cars upright."

A small fire broke out in one of the derailed cars but was

Hammarhjold Calls for Talks

Confers With Red, Western Diplomats On Conference Plans

United Nations, N.Y. — Secretary Dag Hammarskjold called in Soviet and western diplomats for separate talks today in an effort to speed arrangements for a summit meeting on the Middle East.

He acted shortly after Britain formally asked that the U.N. security council hold a heads-of-government meeting Aug. 12.

Hammarskjold set up separate appointments with the delegates of the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France.

He planned to confer with other members of the 11-nation council within 24 hours. Harold Beeley, Britain's acting U.N. representative, requested the summit meeting in a letter he sent to Guillaume Georges-Picot of France, president of the council for August.

Beeley asked Hammarskjold for consultations on arrangements. He said British Prime Minister Macmillan would be present at any summit council session.

Beeley said the object of the consultations should be "to reach agreement on the formulation of the item which the council would discuss and on other pertinent matters on procedure."

He explained he was acting on instructions from his government. His action followed a plan announced by Macmillan in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Milk Firm Strike Ends In Fox Valley

Teamsters Back on Morning Glory Routes After 1-Day Walkout

Housewives and stores got their Morning Glory milk today as Consolidated Bagger Cooperative's workers ended their 1-day strike.

Company and Teamster negotiators signed a 1-year contract Thursday night in Green Bay. The 3-year contract which expired April 1 was scrapped and a new agreement negotiated. All increases are retroactive to April 1. The new pact expires June 1 next year.

Drivers and plant workers in Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Kiel, Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids are covered by the agreement. In the Appleton area, drivers will receive an average increase varying between $60 and $123 monthly, it was indicated.

Health, Welfare All commission drivers with in 60 days will work a 5-day week while receiving the full 6-day earnings of their routes. Relief drivers, one for every five routes, will be paid by the company an average of the commissions of the route they take over.

Consolidated will pay the entire cost of the workers' health and welfare program instead of splitting the cost. Commission drivers will be paid $10 for holi-

Believes Shehab Will Continue Link With West

Beirut — President Camille Chamoun said today he believes Lebanon will continue friendly cooperation with the west under Gen. Fuad Shehab, the president-elect.

Chamoun spoke with Shehab at his side as the cabinet met and withheld a decision on whether to resign. A cabinet resignation had been expected since Premier Sami Solh bitterly opposed parliament's election of Shehab, a political foe. Shehab declined all comment on his future course. The army commander, elected yesterday as a compromise candidate said "I am still a military man."

More American troops began arriving at a time when the rebels were calling for withdrawal of 10,000 U. S. Marines and paratroopers brought in July 15 at Chamoun's request. This is one of their major demands for ending the 84-day-old rebellion.

Commits Self to Idea Of Top-Level Meeting In Note to Khrushchev

Washington — President Eisenhower today proposed a Middle East summit conference within the United Nations about Aug. 12.

In a new letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Eisenhower for the first time committed himself flatly to the idea of a top-level meeting, and called on Khrushchev to join him there.

At the same time Eisenhower named the threat of "further indirect aggression" in the Middle East as the real issue for a meeting of chiefs of government, rejecting the Moscow contention that the trouble stems from "aggression" by the United States in Lebanon.

He turned down in sharp language the idea of any such session outside of the U. N. He told Khrushchev that would amount to an effort to set up "big power dictation such as 'you imposed in eastern Europe.'"

Supports Macmillan

Eisenhower advised Khrushchev he is seeking arrangement of a special security council session through Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the U. N., and that it can be held in New York or some other city—but not Moscow.

"If such a meeting is arranged," Eisenhower wrote, "I expect to attend and participate and I hope that you would do likewise."

A few minutes after the letter was released, Eisenhower conferred at the White House with Lodge. The ambassador was in Washington for a cabinet meeting later in the day. The letter was delivered in Moscow a few hours earlier.

It put Eisenhower squarely behind British Prime Minister Macmillan's summit proposal of yesterday—and squarely against French Premier De Gaulle's proposition. Macmillan called for a security council meeting Aug. 12 while De Gaulle wanted a session outside the United Nations to begin Aug. 18.

Indirect Aggression

Khrushchev's reaction to the latest western approach was awaited here with keen interest. In successive notes in the last two weeks Khrushchev has agreed to a summit session in the United Nations at New York and later called for a five power conference outside the United Nations at Geneva or some other European city.

U. S. officials estimated today that the odds still slightly favor New York.

The nub of the Eisenhower letter, with respect to the issues and the way to meet them, was in this section:

"Essentially you are proposing that we should join you in a policy reminiscent of the sys-

UN Official Is Fighting Ouster

United Nations, N. Y. — Povl Bang-Jensen of Denmark said today he had returned a check for $17,416.25 from the United Nations because his appeal against his dismissal is still pending.

Bang-Jensen, former senior U. N. political affairs officer, said the check represented termination indemnity; a month's vacation pay; three months notice pay, and other allowances.

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold fired the Dane July 3 after a 7-month controversy over Bang-Jensen's refusal to give Hammarskjold a secret list of Hungarian refugees who appeared before the U. N. committee investigating the Hungarian revolt.

An international committee found that Bang-Jensen had been guilty of gross misconduct in his work as deputy secretary of the committee on Hungary and recommended his dismissal. The list of witnesses finally was turned.

Britain Recognizes Government of Iraq

London — Britain today formally recognized the new republican government of Iraq. A foreign office announcement at the same time said Britain no longer regards the Iraq-Jordan union as being in existence and that Jordan has been informed of this.

Turkey, Iran and Pakistan—which with Britain had been allied with Iraq before the July 14 revolution—recognized the new regime previously.

Nuclear Test Missile Fired

Hawaiian Residents See Sky Brightened 700 Miles Away

Honolulu — A missile, with an atomic warhead was fired into the Pacific skies from Johnston island today. The test shot illuminated the heavens and was seen brightly by thousands in Hawaii, 700 miles to the northeast.

The spectacular test blast, on the fringes of space, apparently was part of the effort to develop an anti-missile missile.

The massive flaring in the sky was awesome.

Monica McKechnie, Waikiki vacationer from Daly City, Calif., told of clearly seeing the ball of fire from Waikiki beach and asked, "Would you advise me to leave?" she was told not to be alarmed.

Towering Cloud Two air line pilots on a flight from Honolulu saw the explosion which may have occurred at an altitude of 100 miles.

Capt. Jack Urner and Co-Pilot Eugene Wolf said the sky appeared to erupt at 12:52 a.m. Hawaii time, as a bright flash cut through the darkness in the southwest.

It appeared to them as a towering kind of cloud which climbed swiftly and was topped off by another mushroom cloud that increased in height and width.

At that height the blast possibly was on the fringe of space. Urner said: "It was of great magnitude with a beautiful red glow which slowly dissipated into a white glow."

Twenty minutes after the flash the fliers could see a red fringe around the slowly fading mushroom cloud. Honolulu police said they began getting telephone calls about the blast at 12:55 a.m. From that moment they were swamped.

Flemming Now Cabinet Member

Washington — Dr. Arthur S. Flemming was sworn in today as the new secretary of health, education and welfare.

"It's good to have you back with us," President Eisenhower told Flemming at the oath-taking ceremony in the White House. Flemming served earlier in the administration as chief of the old office of defense mobilization.

The oath of office was administered to Flemming by Associate Justice Charles E. Whitaker of the supreme court. Eisenhower handed Flemming's commission to him.

The ceremony was attended by members of Flemming's family and a group of high government officials.

Texas Blonde Chains and Locks White House Gate

Washington — Remember that 19-year-old Texas blonde who has been protesting-marching to the White House with a 10-pound log chain padlocked around her neck?

She took the chain off today. She wrapped it through the main White House gates, padlocked them shut and made off with the key.

Angeline Cliett of Waller, Texas, has been turning up at the White House daily for the last 10 days, wearing the chain padlocked around her neck.

Asks For Key She said she was protesting a federal court decision that her family doesn't own some 350 Texas acres it claims. When Angeline first showed up, she sent the key to the padlock to President Eisenhower.

The White House response was to place the key in the custody of guards at the main gate, with word that Angeline could pick it up at any time.

Angeline walked to the main gate and requested her key. The police officer stepped to a nearby booth, made a phone call, and then turned over the key.

As the guard stepped back in the booth and watched from the door, Angeline opened the lock and removed the chain from her neck. Then, while the guard still watched, she calmly looped the chain through the steel bars of the closed gate, slipped the sturdy padlock through the loops and snapped it.

A laughing construction worker engaged on an electrical project near the gate asked the guard whether he wanted the lock knocked off with a hammer.

The guard took him up. But the big lock resisted a dozen heavy blows. The worker then took a big pliers and pried open one link of the chain.

Appleton Woman Wins $25,000 First Prize in National Li'l Abner Contest

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Miss Marie Ulmen, 714 N. Richmond street, is $25,000 richer this morning as a first-time winner in a national contest. She has been contesting for 10 or 12 years, but has never won any kind of prize before.

Cool, calm and collected are the only words to describe the slender, brown-eyed woman who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Ulmen.

"Isn't that nice," was her quiet comment Thursday when notified by a company official that she was the top winner in the nation-wide Li'l Abner contest sponsored by the Post-Crescent division of General Foods.

Miss Ulmen sat in complete composure Thursday afternoon as she discussed her interest in the contest. Nearby her mother

She admitted that she was very happy about her new found wealth, but as she said, "Who wouldn't be with all that money?"

Third Major Winner

She is the third Appleton woman to win major contest prizes. In 1956 Mrs. Victor W. Zierke, 810 E. Winnebago street, won $32,000 in a national crossword puzzle contest.

Last year Mrs. Alfred A. Rhode, 335 Park Ridge avenue, a teacher at Franklin school, won a custom built furnished home for her family. The package was valued at $30,000.

Miss Ulmen sat in complete composure Thursday afternoon as she discussed her interest in the contest. Nearby her mother er, beaming over her daughter's good fortune and not nearly so calm, added bits of information as the conversation unfolded. It was Mrs. Ulmen who brought the entry blanks home to her daughter from Dorn's Super Market, 509 N. Richmond street.

"Entering contests is a hobby with me," Miss Ulmen said. "I think it's a hobby that's both interesting and inexpensive."

"I don't make it a burden, I just do all kinds, usually those that offer cash prizes rather than merchandise awards," she said. "In that way, if you win, you can pay the necessary taxes easily."

She keeps her entries in an old high school notebook, organizing them according to expiration date. Most of her think-

Pressure Mounts on Social Security Bill

Measure to Boost Benefits by 7 Per Cent Gains Backing in Senate After House Passage

BY JOE HALL
Washington — A Senate pressures mounted today for quick action on a bill to increase social security pensions by 7 per cent in the wake of a 375-2 house vote for the measure.

Some senators said they did not believe their branch could run the political risk of adjourning the 85th congress without acting on the legislation.

The higher payments had strong election-year appeal despite the bill's provision for a series of tax increases to finance the changes.

Taxes on many workers would go up $25.50 next year and another $24 the following year as part of the stepped-up tax schedule.

The house rushed the bill to the senate after only a few hours' debate. Reps. Noah Mason (R-Ill) and Bruce Alger (R-Texas) cast the only no votes.

Affects 12 Million
The measure would boost monthly payments for the 12 million beneficiaries now receiving social security insurance checks, and provide higher payments for those retiring in future years.

The benefit increases would take effect Nov. 1 if the bill becomes law in August. Taxes would go up next Jan. 1.

The big obstacle to the bill in the senate appeared to be the crush of business before the finance committee which must handle it. That group already has on its schedule three bulky tax bills as well as President Eisenhower's request for another hike in the debt limit.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), the committee chairman, said only that he would bring the bill before the group when it finishes work on a small business tax relief measure.

Other senators reported that Byrd was cool to the bill, holding the view that it was too complex and far-reaching to handle in a congressional adjournment rush.

Johnson Backs Bill
However, senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) has announced he will try to get the bill before the senate for a vote.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.), a committee member, told a reporter "I hope we can get the bill up and I favor reporting it out so long as it provides revenue to cover the increased benefits."

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), another member, declared "the senate should not go home without acting on this bill."

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kans.) said in an interview he believed the committee could report the bill but it would have to limit sharply its hearings on the legislation.

Carlson said the committee may want to knock out some of the house provisions that go beyond a simple increase in benefits and taxes.

In addition to revamping the social security insurance payments, the bill also would increase $288 million annually federal grants to the states for public assistance programs. These programs provide aid for needy aged, blind and disabled persons and dependent children.

Chief Provisions
The chief provisions of the bill would raise old age, survivors and disability benefits under social security insurance by 7 per cent with a minimum of $3 a month.

For individuals on the retired rolls, the monthly checks would range from $33 to $118 a month, as compared with $30 to $106.50 now. In the future, the maximum payment would reach $127.

The payroll tax, now 2 1/2 per cent each for employer and employee on a $4,200 wage base, would be upped to 2 1/2 per cent on a $4,800 base next year.

Another one-half per cent would be added in 1960, and the rate would reach 4 1/2 per cent each by 1969 instead of 4 1/2 per cent in 1975 as under present law.

The rate for the self-employed, now 3 1/2 per cent, would go to 3 1/2 next year and 6 1/2 in 1969.

Book Divorcee In Murder Case

Suspect in Shooting Of Drug Executive Tries to Take Own Life

Indianapolis — Homicide detectives waited today for an attractive divorcee to regain consciousness so they could question her about the fatal shooting of a prosperous pharmaceutical executive.

Mrs. Connie Nicholas, 40, sought for questioning in Mrs. Nicholas the fatal shooting of Forrest Teel, a handsome 54-year-old executive vice president of Eli Lilly and company, was found Thursday night in her parked car in an Indianapolis lover's lane.

She was booked on a preliminary charge of murder.

Homicide Detective Phil Sanders said the curvaceous Mrs. Nicholas, a physical culture enthusiast, apparently tried to take her own life by drinking fruit juice containing sleeping pills. She was taken to General hospital in critical condition.

A .25 caliber pistol, similar to the one that killed the wealthy businessman, was found in Mrs. Nicholas' purse.

Sanders said four bullets had been fired from the small pistol. Three slugs were found in the body of Teel and another slug was found in his white Cadillac.

Teel, who died after his car backed in wild circles out of a parking lot, was in charge of all marketing of drugs made by the Lilly company—a business of $200 million a year.

Sanders said Mrs. Nicholas had been seeing Teel for about 15 years. She first met him while working at the Lilly firm.

The detective said there was an indication of a love-triangle. He said witnesses indicated that Teel was trying to break up with the petite Mrs. Nicholas and had been dating a younger girl.

Some Steel Goes Up; Others Wait For Similar Hike

Nation's Top Two Producers Join in Price Increase

Pittsburgh — Manufacturers who use flat sheets and strips of steel paid more for raw material today, and other fabricators wondered how long it would be before they too will be faced with higher steel prices.

U. S. Steel, top producer and Bethlehem Steel, second-ranked, made a selective price hike industry-wide yesterday when they joined an increasing number of smaller firms in hiking the price of flat rolled products.

U. S. Steel estimated the average increase at $4.25 a ton while some other companies figured the average boost at $4.50 a ton. But all of the new lists carried similar items at identical prices.

The Aluminum Co. of America also posted a 7-10 of a cent per pound price increase of pig aluminum to become effective today. The new price will be 24.7 cents a pound.

Even with the increased price, pig aluminum will be selling 1.3 cents a pound less than it cost last March before Alcoa lowered prices two cents a pound to meet competition on the world market.

Unchanged Items
The steel price increase left unchanged the price tags on such items as oil tubing, structural steel and heavy steel plates as well as wire products. The price of these items has remained unchanged since July, 1957, when the steel industry boosted prices an average of $6 a ton.

It is the prices of these items that manufacturers and fabricators are expecting to be increased. No one seemed prepared to say how soon, or if, such an increase will come.

It was the first time since World War II that U. S. Steel has not moved first to adjust prices. This time the traditional pace setter sat back while Armco steel announced last Tuesday it would increase prices.

The bulk of the flat rolled steel products go to the automotive and home appliance industries, although considerable tonnage goes into a host of smaller products used by the American public.

Last year, flat rolled products made up a little less than one third of the nearly $0 million tons of finished steel that was sold. That means nearly two thirds of the steel products are not affected by the price boost.

GI Who Hid Out in France for 14 Years Gets 10-Year Desertion Term

Former Army Truck Driver Now Father Of Five Children With French Woman

Verdun, France — An army court-martial today sentenced Wayne Powers, the GI who hid out for 14 years with his French com-mon-law wife, to 10 years imprisonment after he pleaded guilty to a charge of wartime desertion.

The 37-year-old father of five children shook his bald head in disbelief as the sentence of the 8-man court was read.

The sentence now goes to Brig. Gen. Robert J. Fleming, the area commander, who could reduce it considerably. It was believed Powers pleaded guilty under a pre-trial agreement providing for a light sentence.

Powers himself said before the trial started that if everything went "the way it should," he would be back home "in a month or two." He is a native of Chillicothe, Mo., but home is the village of Mont D'Origny, near the Belgian border, where he lived with his five children and their French mother, Yvette Belesue.

The defense attorneys — Lt. James Singleton of Detroit, Mich., and Lt. Leon Avakian of Newton, Mass. — also expressed belief before the trial started that Powers would get off with a light sentence. The maximum penalty is death.

Yvette and the children were in court after delaying the start of the brief trial by half an hour. The mother insisted on giving the children a good breakfast first.

The court was headed by Col. Roy Kauffman of Memphis, Tenn.

Powers' strange tale started in 1944, when he was 23 and a private first class driving a truck with the army in France. His truck disappeared and he faced court-martial.

Powers escaped from the army stockade and went for help and solace to Yvette, whom he had met before. That was the beginning of a bizarre life which continued for 14 years.

They settled down together without marrying. (Powers had a wife in Missouri who later divorced him for desertion.) Yvette went out to work in a textile mill to support their growing family; Powers stayed home to do the housework.

He ventured out only at night. When the doorbell rang, he ran to a cramped hiding place under a stairway with a false step.

The villagers saw almost nothing of Powers but kept close track of each new baby with an English name — Dorothy, Tilly, Douglas, Harry and Freddy.

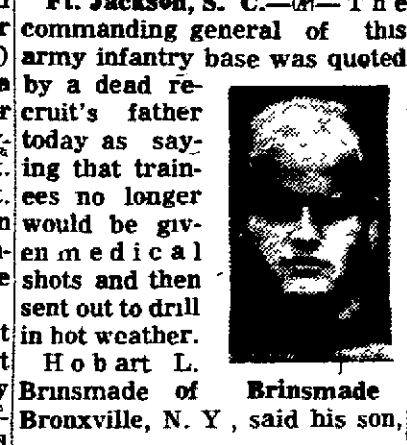

The neighbors maintained a close-mouthed silence in the presence of outsiders. But Powers was his own undoing last March.

Regional gendarmes investigating a traffic accident in front of the house noticed Powers peeping through the front window curtains. They questioned him as the only witness, and his furtive behavior aroused suspicion.

Investigation turned up evidence that he was sought as a deserter. On March 22 he was taken from the prison of his front of the house noticed Powers own making and handed in to a U. S. army prison.

Air Force Announces Major Breakthrough in Missile Guidance

New System Eliminates Need for Controlling Flight From Ground

Inglewood, Calif. — A major breakthrough in missile guidance was announced today by Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the air force ballistic missile division. The development: an all-inertial guidance system — months, perhaps years, sooner than the air force had hoped.

The air force has been using radio-controlled inertial guidance systems for its missiles. All-inertial guidance frees missiles from any need for control from the ground, with these big advantages:

Such missiles cannot be "jammed" by enemy radio and radar and thus diverted from their target.

Missile bases using the all-inertial guidance system can be dispersed easily and hidden from enemy detection. Underground bases will not be betrayed by the presence of antennae.

Millions or even billions of dollars can be saved through construction of less-elaborate ground facilities.

Space ships, the big brothers of today's missiles, will be able to guide themselves far beyond the range of radio and radar. Up to now, space-trip plans have been limited to Mars and Venus because radio guidance needed to keep space ships oriented with earth will not reach much farther. The new breakthrough means a space ship can use any object in the heavens as an orientation point.

System Explained
What is inertial guidance? It's a system of controlling the direction of a missile or rocket which uses gyro-stabilizers similar to the spinning toys familiar to children since World War I. Star the gyro whirling and it remains stable no matter how you hold it or toss it around.

A series of such gyros is used in inertial guidance systems. In radio-controlled systems, variations in speed and direction are corrected by sending signals to the missile. The all-inertial missile carries its own computer which automatically makes the changes needed to keep the missile on course.

The all-inertial system has already proven a success in laboratory and rocket sled tests. Flight tests are expected to begin next year.

Campaign Schools Show GOP Serious

Republican State Officials Hold First Lessons for Party Workers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The first of a series of campaign "schools" held here under the direction of the Republican party state organization showed that the party proposes to leave nothing to chance in this year's elections.

In a strictly business-like way that contrasted with the easy informality of the majority party in some previous campaigns, the Republican headquarters staff spent four hours drilling the local campaign workers on the realistic elements of 20th century campaigning.

The sessions were attended by party chairmen and other officials of the first, second and

Sergeant Cleared In Korea Shooting

Seoul, Korea — The army today cleared Sgt. Hager B. Blevins of Circleville, Ohio, of blame for fatally shooting a Korean thief.

An army investigation showed that "Blevins handled himself properly and fired strictly in performance of duties assigned him," an 8th army spokesman said. No charges will be filed.

Blevins, 25, was on special guard duty July 22 when he spotted two Koreans trying to carry water pumps away from a 77th division engineer company. He shouted "halt" three times and fired twice when the Koreans kept running with the pumps. Kim I Sun, 28, was hit by both shots.

Disease in Transplant From Brother's Kidney Causes Youth's Death

Louisville, Ky. — A youth who received a kidney from his twin brother in a rare operation died Thursday night.

Doctors discovered last year that Leon Masden, 20, of nearby Shepherdsville had diseased kidneys. They gave him only a month or so to live.

There was one chance, however, and the family took it. Leon received a kidney transplant from his twin, Leonard, at Peter Bent Brigham hospital, Boston, in June, 1957.

Leon's diseased kidneys later were removed. Physicians said his death was caused by disease in the transplanted kidney.

third congressional districts. Other sessions will be held at Green Bay Aug. 5, Phillips Aug. 6, and Eau Claire Aug. 9.

The meetings are not open to the press, but news agency representatives saw enough of the arrangements here before the doors closed to show something of the strategic thinking of Republicans as they prepare for battle with the Democrats.

An efficient, generous and prudent state government administration during a 20-year Republican regime will be the keynote of the vote appeal of Gov. Thomson and the Republican party.

Separate county campaign booklets, with easily understood graphs and illustrations, will show the increased aids to local government during the Republicans' two decades of state control.

Such aids were achieved without any basic changes in the basic state income tax, the Republicans will explain.

"Without these aids your local taxes would have been insufferable," the handbooks will advise local voters during the summer and fall drive of the party.

Show Seriousness

The arrangements and the delegates showed an unusual seriousness of purpose — and an awareness of the strength of the challenging Democrats.

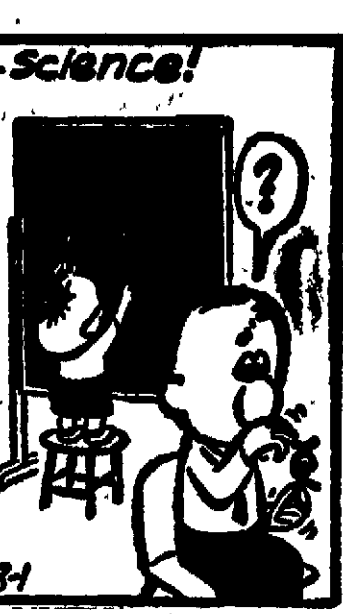

Photographs, heavily enlarged, showed CIO headquarters workers in telephone solicitation of voters during the special senatorial election of last year — which the Republicans lost.

"We must do more than this and better, to win," the GOP workers were warned.

The local politicians were lectured on publicity techniques, the organization of brigades of telephone solicitors, the preparation of campaign literature and other campaign aids including buttons and pins, the conduct of political meetings in rural and urban places and many other phases of practical politics.

Lecturers included specialists and the officers of the Republican party organization headed by Chairman Claude J. Jasper.

That Gov. Thomson's own campaign for reelection is already well organized was shown by the stacks of Thomson campaign literature offered to the local partisans. The governor did not attend. He was out in the state, working on the heaviest speech schedule of the year in upper Wisconsin.

Pipe Smokers Compete for Championship

Flint — The world's most placid contest will be held here over the weekend.

Pipe smokers from all over the United States—probably 75 to 100 of them—will stoke up with a special contest blend and puff away for the tenth world championship Saturday.

The rules are simple. Light up and have at it. If it goes out after the first minute, you're out. The last man puffing is the winner.

Last Year Not Best

Last year's champion, Harold R. Soden of Lake Placid, N. Y., kept giving out with clouds of smoke for 70 minutes 15 seconds. That's far from the best.

"Nobody ever will beat Max's record," says Paul T. Spaniola of Flint, chairman of the International Association of Pipe Smokers Clubs convention and a former world champion himself.

The late Max Igree of Flint puffed peacefully for 125 minutes 7 seconds when he won the championship in 1954.

Almost Out

"Max gained 30 or 35 minutes on everybody else because he'd almost let it go out and then at the last second he would revive it," said Spaniola.

Igree had another trick, used by most of the contestants. He fired up only a small portion of the tobacco in his bowl. He nursed the tiny spark until it had moved around the bowl and consumed his tobacco.

Each contestant starts with 3.3 grams of tobacco—a heaping teaspoonful, about a normal bowl of tobacco—supplied just before the contest.

Given Two Matches

He is given two kitchen matches. During the first minute the contestants may fire up again—just once—if their pipe goes out. But after that when the fire goes out, the contestant goes out.

The prizes for first, second and third places are — you guessed it—pipe sets.

Geographic Center Of Nation Shifts To South Dakota

Washington — The government reports admission of Alaska as a state will shift the geographic center of the United States from Kansas to South Dakota.

This will be the first change since the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey computed the geographic center about 40 years ago.

The survey said new calculations, which may be off about 10 miles in any direction, indicate Alaskan statehood will move the geographic center from Lebanon, Kan., to Butte county, South Dakota. This is a move of about 439 miles in a northwesterly direction.

The new center is about 11 miles west of Castle Rock, S. D., and 20 miles east of the point at which South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming join. It is near a hill called two Top Peak.

Rear Adm. H. Arnold Caro, director of the survey, said the geographic center of Alaska was placed about 60 miles northwest of Mt. McKinley.

In calculating the new center for the entire country, he said, statisticians drew a line between Alaska's geographic center and the old U. S. center in Kansas. He said they calculated the point along this line at which the geographic areas of Alaska and the 48 states would balance.

Technically, the new center is located approximately at latitude 44 degrees 59 minutes north and longitude 103 degrees 38 minutes west.

Firm to Test Feasibility Of Bagasse for Paper

Hawaiian Association, Company Considers Using Sugar Cane Residue

The practicality of using sugar cane residue for paper manufacture in Hawaii will be explored by Crown Zellerbach corporation and the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association this fall.

The material is bagasse, the fibrous residue of processed sugar cane. Dr. Harry Lewis, vice president of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, says work was done with bagasse at the institute years ago.

Good paper can be made from bagasse, he says, but the practicality and commercial feasibility of its use is a matter of economic balance. "It just depends on whether there's more wood than bagasse or more bagasse than wood."

Crown Zellerbach and the association have been conducting joint laboratory research since 1952 and concluded that it was technically feasible to make paper from bagasse.

New Facilities

The joint research and testing program costing $800,000 will begin with the construction of new facilities at the Crown Zellerbach central research department in Camas, Washington and Hawaii.

The program will include: Specialized pulping and refining equipment at the corporation research laboratory to prepare bagasse for possible manufacture into papers of commercial quality on standard paper machines in the northwest.

A large-scale pilot plant attached to the Oahu Sugar company to study depithing bagasse, a process which separates the residual fiber and pith from sugar cane.

Construction of large outdoor storage piles of bagasse at Hilo and Waipahu to determine its reaction to dry and wet weather conditions.

About 1,000 tons of depithed bagasse will be shipped to Camas from Hawaii for further refining and manufacture into paper. One ton of bagasse produces about a half ton of paper.

The projected tests will determine the practicality of a Hawaiian mill which would use about 75,000 tons of bagasse a year. Such a mill might produce Hawaii's major requirements of paper and paperboard, an association spokesman said. No decision has been reached on who would build the mill.

The 27 plantations of the four major Hawaiian islands are members of the association. Hawaii produces about a million tons of bagasse annually. About 5 per cent of this is used for wall board and the rest burned as fuel in sugar mills at the plantations.

Man Refuses Payment For Serving Jury Duty

Detroit — Recorder's court officials say Lloyd R. Johnson, 31, is the first man they can remember who refuses to be paid for jury duty.

Johnson, who is in the plumbing and heating business, is on jury duty for 20 days. Normal pay is $8 a day, but he doesn't want it. He says:

"Accepting pay which I don't need for jury duty would be like getting paid for voting."

Declares GOP Voters Learned Lesson Last Year

By The Associated Press

Republican Gov. Vernon Thomson said Thursday night that Wisconsin GOP voters learned a lesson last year about staying home on election day.

Thomson told a meeting at Eau Claire that the election of Sen. William Proxmire was a political fluke.

"Studies of the election figures show conclusively that the apparent gain in Democratic strength in Wisconsin is actually non-existent," Thomson said. He added that Democratic attempts to enter slates in every county election will help GOP candidates for the legislature and state offices by forcing Republicans to go to the polls.

Comedian Danny Kaye Has Big City Hall Day

Los Angeles — Comedian Danny Kaye had a big day at city hall.

While the city council was honoring him for his current show in the city-owned Greek theater yesterday, the fire department was citing him for smoking backstage.

Kaye was praised in a council resolution for his work on behalf of peace and his worldwide efforts to bring joy and hope to children.

One floor down in city hall a fire department complaint was presented to the city attorney charging the comedian with ignoring the smoking ban at the theater.

Kaye will have to appear on the complaint next week.

U. S. Transport Plane Downed

Ship Released After Being Held An Hour in Santiago

New York — A U. S. Navy transport plane was reported forced down yesterday by fighters of the Dominican Republic's air force. The plane was released after being searched and held for an hour in Santiago, on the north coast of the Dominican Republic.

The Dominicans were reported looking for smuggled arms but there was no immediate explanation why they went after a clearly marked U. S. military plane.

Ray Carnay of radio station KIOA in Des Moines, Iowa, telephoned the news from the U. S. navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba, after the plane's return. He gave this account:

Athletic Team

The plane, a twin-engine Albatross carrying a crew of five, was returning to Guantanamo after delivering a navy athletic team to San Juan, Puerto Rico, for a competition there.

Near Santiago it was intercepted by three P-51s of the Dominican air force and forced to land at Santiago. It was kept there for about an hour, then allowed to proceed on to Cuba. None of the five crewmen were harmed and nothing was taken.

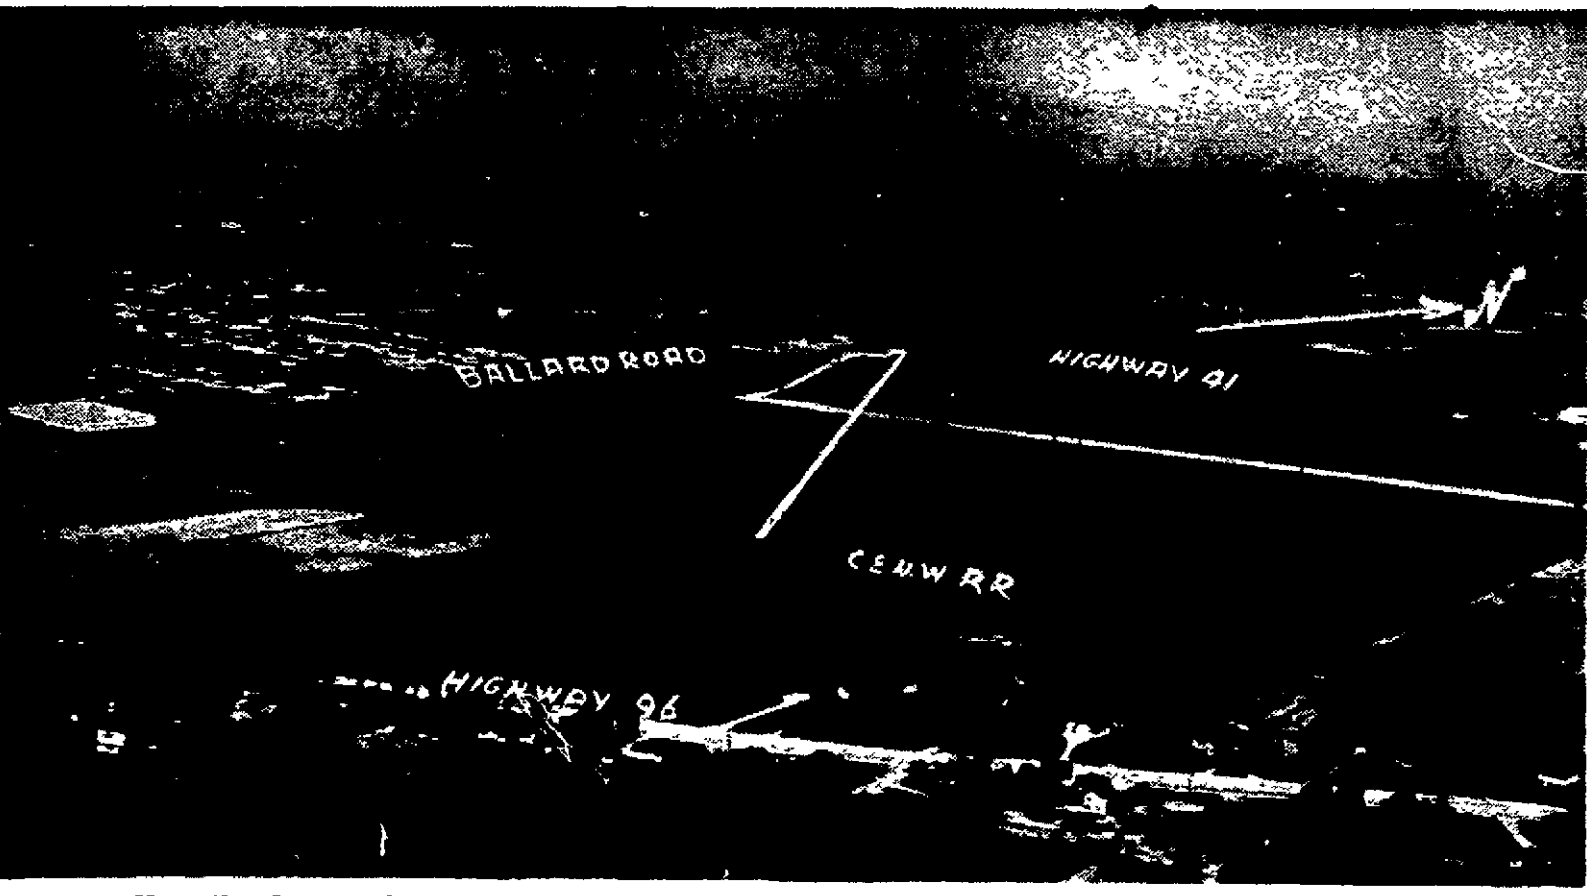

Naval authorities at Guantanamo base had no immediate comment on the incident but indicated a statement would be issued later today.

Death of Oneida County Man Raises Wisconsin Highway Toll to 419

By The Associated Press

The death of an Oneida county man has brought Wisconsin's highway toll for the year to 419, compared with 459 on this day last year.

Herold Guth, 48, of Pelican lake, Oneida county, was killed early today when the car he was driving struck an unoccupied, parked automobile in the village of Elcho, Langlade county.

Here's how the Outagamie county airport will look after the proposed cross runway is built next year. The existing runway crosses the center of the picture horizontally; the cross runway has been painted in vertically. The runways will be connected by a taxi strip, forming the top of the figure 4 pattern. Present airport buildings, near where the temporary terminal will be built, can be seen to the left of the top of the figure 4 pattern. The permanent terminal will be built near the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks in the lower left section of the field. Part or all of a 25-acre tract is needed for it. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Teenagers Say They Want to Live in Suburbs to Flee Gangs, Congestion

BY EUGENE GILBERT

The flight to suburbia, the post-war phenomenon that has caught the attention of sociologists and the satirical scorn of novelists, shows no signs of diminishing and if teenagers have their way when their turn comes to raise a family, this wholesale migration to the outlying districts of our large cities will continue at an accelerated pace.

More than four out of every 10 city-dwelling teenagers we interviewed in a nationwide survey said they wanted out as soon as possible. And of these, 84 per cent chose the suburbs while only 6 per cent wanted and those moving in from the country precincts.

Why are the suburbs so popular with the younger set?

For about the same reasons that they are popular with parents: fresh air, a chance to have a home and garden, an escape from juvenile delinquency and gang warfare, room to raise a family, proximity to the city's advantages but relief from its congestion, better schools, less traffic, congenial neighbors, and in general a slower pace of living.

Among all the reasons cited, the fear of juvenile delinquency led the list by a wide margin.

York," she sighed, "is the greatest. Everything is there."

Similarly, Jack Fuller, 17, Kirkwood, Ohio, said he preferred the city because "it's easier to get to different places and it's closer to the business world."

In the course of this survey, we were surprised to learn the glitter of big city lights no longer holds a fascination for country boys and girls. Only 5 per cent of the rural boys and 3 per cent of the girls dissatisfied with country living would trade places with the city slicker. The only worry about keeping them down on the farm these days will be after they've seen suburbia, not Paree or any other big city.

Share Taxes? Beverly Germack of Olean, N.Y., said that in "a suburb of a large city you can enjoy a more country style of living away from the noise of the city but within easy travelling distance of its advantages."

The growing controversy over whether suburbanites who work in the city should pay city taxes left teenagers pretty much divided.

Approximately 49 per cent (51 per cent of the boys and 47 per cent of the girls) thought it was only fair that suburban families contribute to the welfare of the city in which they earn their livelihoods.

In a typical answer, Warren Blakely, San Bernardino, Calif., argued that suburbanites "generally are the direct beneficiaries of services performed by the city and so they should pay the costs."

The anti-tax camp argued that not only are city taxes on suburbanites unfair but grossly unconstitutional. "It's taxation without representation," cried 19-year-old Fred Scholtz, Colwick, N.J.

Judy Egor, Valley Stream, N.Y., dismissed the whole controversy with a frequently voiced complaint from both city and country dwellers: "There are just too many taxes."

Church Should Consult Experts About Current Issues, Says Minister

Kansas City — The Methodist church should consult experts before issuing statements of policy on current issues, says a minister.

The statement was made by the Rev. Donald Kuhn of Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., last night at the national Youth School of Alcohol Studies and Action.

"If the church is to say anything significant on any one problem, it must use the experts in the related fields. Any statement on alcohol and its being served on airlines ought to follow consultations with Civil Aeronautics administration, airlines officials, air crew members, constitutional lawyers and professional economists."

He said such a simple formula as "drinking is wrong" is inadequate if it fails to take into account changing society.

Twenty-eight states sent delegates to the conference, which will continue through Sunday.

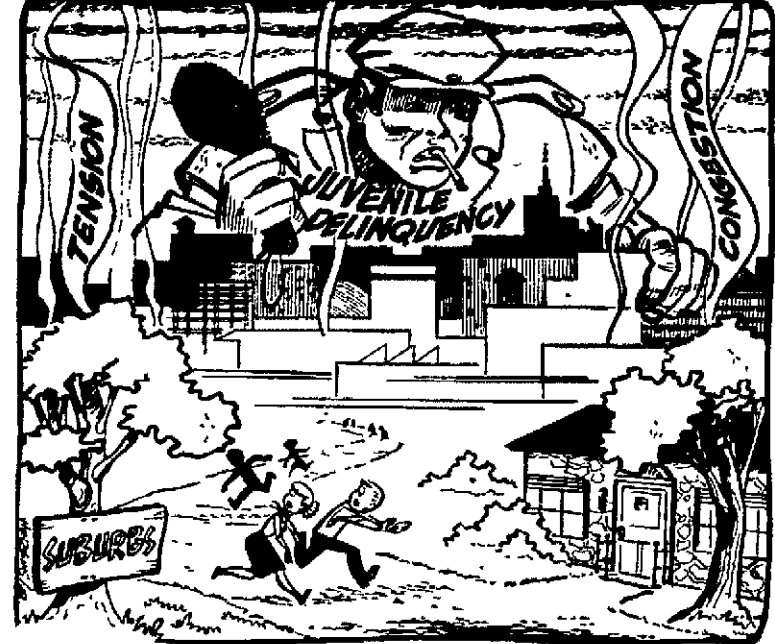

When the question arises, just ask your doctor whether to go back to work. If I tried to answer, I'd have to discuss all the possible situations. In your cases, the doctor has to discuss only one situation—yours.

On Bowlegs: "Dear Dr. Molner: I was born with a marked case of bow legs. Can anything be done to correct them?—Mrs. A.D."

Not a thing — except to remember there are people with no legs, with no eyes, with all sorts of afflictions. Also remember that any man would far rather have a wife with bent legs than one with a warped disposition.

Admit Jitters Mrs. L.B.: After all the good electro-cardiograms you've had, why not break down and admit that your problem is nerves? There's nothing disgraceful in having nervous jitters. The only thing is, it's painful to you and those around you if you won't look squarely at the facts and try to correct what doesn't.

to live in a small town. The rest preferred country living.

The girls lead the stampede. Among city-bred bobby-soxers, 52 per cent said they wanted to live elsewhere. And of these, a whopping 87 per cent preferred the suburbs to all other locales.

Teenagers in small towns and no farms were more contented with their lot. At least the boys were. Only 24 per cent wanted to live elsewhere. The girls, however, were considerably more restless, with 42 per cent in favor of shaking the hometown dust from their first pair of high heels.

Would Flee Gangs Where did they want to go? Suburbia again, by a wide margin: 87 per cent of the migration-minded country boys and 91 per cent of the girls.

If this pattern holds true, the suburbs may be in for a tremendous influx of population from two directions: those moving out from the big cities particularly among city boys and girls interviewed.

Fifteen-year-old Dick Ayer said his family moved to Merchantville, N. J., to "get away from gang wars and live in a decent neighborhood."

Ellen Kalb, 15, Flushing, another residential section of New York City, said she wanted out "because of juvenile delinquency and racial differences."

Despite the barrage of criticism thrown up by both urban and rural teenagers who wanted no part of it, the city still had its admirers and defenders.

"The city offers intellectual stimulation and considerable sophistication," insisted 19-year-old Frederick Litto, Los Angeles.

Even suburbia had its share of the disenchanted. Jo Ann Whalby, Hastings-on-Hudson, a pleasant commuter town in New York's Westchester county, said she wished she were back in the big city. "New

To Your Good Health

Circulatory System Likened To Complicated Plumbing

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain 'diastolic pressure' and how it can be overcome? I understand that a new drug is on the market for blood pressure. If your blood pressure does come down near normal, can one return to his general work in life?—D.C.H."

Let's kick out a misunderstanding or two. First, everybody has some diastolic pressure, just as everybody has blood pressure.

You have, in fact, two kinds of pressure. You have systolic pressure, meaning the pressure while the heart is on a pumping beat, and you have diastolic, meaning the pressure that remains between beats. That's why it is incorrect to say that you have a "blood pressure of 140," or whatever the figure is. You should say that the pressure is "140-over-90," showing the two types of pressure.

Now I gather from your letter that you have high blood pressure, or have had it. Generally, both the pumping and resting pressure will be higher than normal when you have high blood pressure. Sometimes the doctor can bring both of them down. Sometimes he can reduce the systolic, or pumping, pressure, but still has some difficulty in reducing the diastolic, or resting, pressure.

Complicated System The behavior of the heart, and the blood pressure, and the circulatory system in general, is as complicated as the plumbing in a house that was built in 1912. It gets out of whack—and just why it gets out of whack is a riddle that has given lots of plumbers, and just as many doctors, some sleepless nights!

There may be a leak, or clogged pipe, or the whole system may be reduced in size because of an accumulation of sediment of one type or another, or the original pumping pressure may be out of whack, or whatnot. If a plumber can find out what is causing the trouble, he can fix it. The extent of the job, and the price, of course, will vary.

With human circulation, if the cause is ascertained, it may or may not be curable. People are more complicated than the plumbing in a house! You can, at a price, replace all the pipes in a house. You can't replace all your arteries.

Some New Drugs Valuable So (to get to your second question) you can't assume that a "new drug" necessarily will correct all cases of high blood pressure. All I can say is that a couple of dozen or so new drugs all have their uses and none is a sure cure for all pressure problems.

The nice thing about your letter is the inquiry about going back to work if your blood pressure can be made to come down near normal. As a general thing, the answer is yes. There may be some few cases, involving special circumstances, in which the doctor must, in all honesty, say that you ought to remain at rest. If so, there's only one smart thing for you to do. Obey him!

I'd have to write several books (let alone chapters, or columns) to discuss all the possible situations that occur.

Medical Phenomenon

Strange Phantoms Still Appearing in Our World

Autoscopic hallucinations, a medical phenomenon in which one's own body image is projected into visual space, still is being reported to medical men.

Although little has been written in English about the phenomenon, according to Dr. N. Lukianowicz, Barrow hospital, Bristol, England, he reports seven cases of autoscopia in the August Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry, published by the American Medical association.

Here is an example of what happens in such cases: When Mrs. A. returned home in late afternoon from her husband's funeral, she saw a strange woman in front of her. As she turned on the light, she noted the woman wore a replica of her own coat, hat and veil. Without othering about the intruder, Mrs. A. began to undress. The other woman did the same.

Only then, looking into the stranger's face, did Mrs. A. realize she was staring at herself, as if in a mirror. She was experiencing the unusual, yet long known, autoscopic hallucination.

Closes Eyes As Mrs. A. looked at her "double" she felt it was more alive and warm than she was. Dr. Lukianowicz said. Feeling extremely tired, she lay down. As she closed her eyes, she lost sight of her apparition. Almost at once she felt stronger, as if the "life of this astral body" was coming back into her body. She continued to be visited by her double each day, usually at dusk, when she was alone

She would see it only when she looked straight ahead.

Whenever it happened, Mrs. A. "felt mildly amazed and bewildered" and had "a perplexing feeling of unreality." She explained, "In a detached intellectual way I am fully aware that my 'double' is only an hallucination. Yet I see it; I hear it; I feel it with all my senses. Emotionally I feel it as a living, integral part of myself, as a materialized form of my own 'astral body.' It is me, split and divided."

The cause of Mrs. A.'s difficulty is not known. It seems to be somewhat related to other hallucinatory occurrences, including the imaginary playmate of childhood, phantom limbs and clairvoyance. Dr. Lukianowicz said.

'Double's Appearance When autoscopia occurs, the "double" usually appears suddenly and without warning. Most frequently the patient "sees" only the face, or the face and bust; less frequently he sees the whole figure. The specter is seen clearly and with details. It generally has no color and is frequently transparent. It usually imitates all movements, particularly the facial expression, of its "original."

The most frequent emotional reaction to seeing one's double is sadness, often amazement or bewilderment, and sometimes satisfaction, the author said. The subjective sensory feeling of coldness and weariness is frequent.

The phantom usually appears in the visual space in front of the patient. The whole experience lasts usually only a few seconds and may occur from

Homemade Rocket Kills Youngster

Teaneck, N.J. — Merrill Poliakoff and his friends devised a tiny homemade rocket that would make little cars whiz around the room.

Merrill Poliakoff, whose father, Melvin Poliakoff, is chief chemist for a local chemical firm, was playing at the home of Michael Taksey, 14, with Michael and two friends.

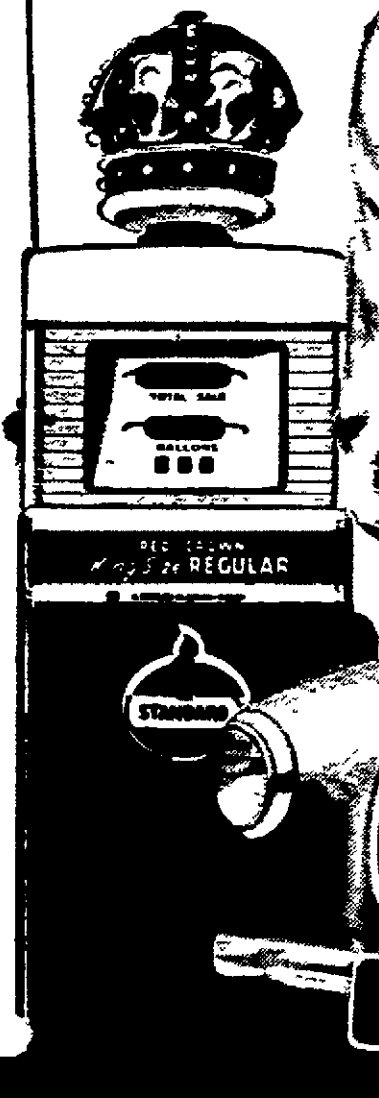

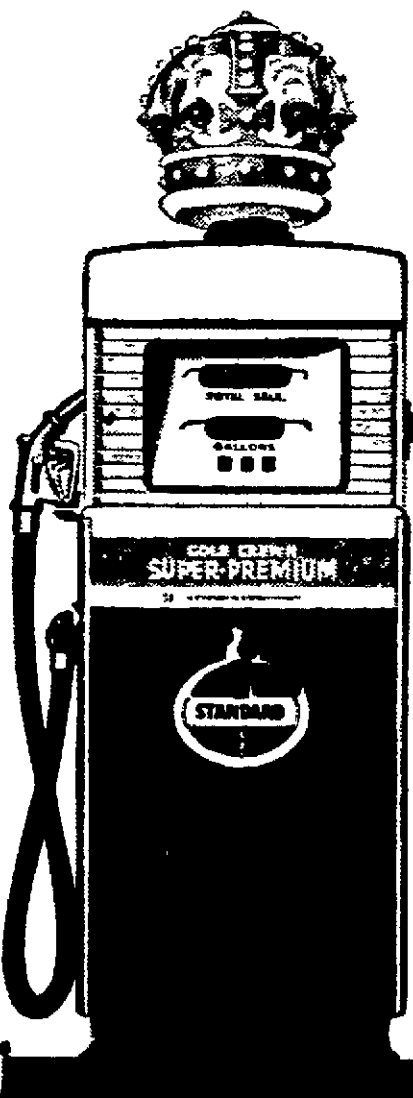

As usual, they had filled a 2-inch long carbon dioxide cartridge with salt peter, sulphur and charcoal. Then they attached it to the toy car and inserted a match as a fuse. But the match somehow blocked the opening and when the fuse was lit, the cartridge exploded, police theorized.

The other boys were unhurt.

once in a lifetime to a continuous presence of the double.

No treatment for autoscopia is known, the author said, although treatment of some co-existing disorder, such as depression or a brain lesion, might prove useful.

Taverns and Politics

With a kind of bully-boy bravado that is happily rare in Wisconsin politics, some of the organized tavern keepers of upper Wisconsin have been publishing threats of political reprisal against Gov. Thomson for having vetoed one of their favorite bills last year.

The governor declined to sign, and the legislature thereupon permitted to die, a fiercely lobbied bill that would have permitted taverns in the northern resort country special privileges in the way of closing hours. Tavern trade groups are trying to make a political issue out of the circumstance.

This is a grave error, not only on its merits, but for the best interests of the resort and tavern industry as a whole.

Not only do these critics have no assurance whatever that the only other candidate for governor who will be on the ballot this year agrees with them, but they are betraying a narrow conception of politics that is one of the most distressing of the aspects of the pressure group organization of our day. Surely a candidate for the highest office, on the state ballot has a right to be judged on his record as a whole — rather than on a single test devised by an obviously jaundiced lobby.

Aside from the merits, however, this tavern group is making a serious strategic error in assuming that without Gov. Thomson it might have won the special commercial privilege it sought.

Much has been made of the fact that this dubious bill was approved by both houses of the legislature. Technically, it was. Actually, the statement misses the truth by a wide margin. What happened was that the senate, partly in a spirit of jocosity, approved it in a voice vote as a kind of tolerant gesture for a popular member whose name the measure bore, but with the hope and the belief that the assembly would defeat it. The assembly, however, perhaps out of a resentment toward such unworthy shenanigans, also approved it — with another voice vote. It was one of the least impressive incidents in the history of the 1957 legislature. A voice vote permits a legislator to follow the coaxing of the lobbyist, but with immunity from the criticism of his constituents. He can always say that he voted with the minority.

It was therefore squarely up to Gov. Thomson to stand up and be counted. He did. His objections were cogent. They were so persuasive, in fact, that when the senate had to vote again on whether to pass the bill notwithstanding his objections, only five senators out of a chamber that numbered 32 said they wanted the bill enacted into law. Here was the first expression of the real opinion of the chamber — and we believe the opinion of the people of Wisconsin — which the angry tavern keepers of the lake country have chosen to ignore.

Super Roads and Billboards

The state highway commission is proud of the new roads it is starting to build under the national system of Interstate highways authorized by congressional legislation of 1956. It is organizing inspection tours for newspapermen and others and most of the visitors are visibly impressed by the breadth of design imagination and other extraordinary details.

But there is one question on which the road builders have seemed to be silent, although the Congress made it eminently plain when it provided these multi-million dollar sums of federal money that it expected some initiative and enterprise from the states on the matter.

That issue is billboard control along the roads that are being built at an average and breath-taking cost of a million dollars a mile, and that obviously imply heavy future liability in care and maintenance.

The issue was left for resolution according to the principles of home rule. The new federal aid act provides some little incentive, in the way of a 1/2 of 1 per cent additional allocation of funds per mile, to the states with effective billboard control laws. That incentive has not been very attractive.

Blow Up

While scientists have been worrying about the radiation effects of experimental nuclear weapons, the villagers on the island of Fayal have had another kind of fall-out to bother them. Whatever the great progress in understanding and guiding the forces of nature, no one has yet discovered a way to prevent volcanoes from erupting. There still is much doubt about the causes of such tremendous explosions.

Last fall an earthquake shook the light-house on Fayal, one of a chain of Portuguese islands in the Azores. A few days later jets of ash began to shoot from the sea. Within a month the new island of Ilha Nova II was born and the eruptions have continued. Since the Azores are not completely isolated, crowds began to arrive to watch the fireworks. Ash blanketed the island, its weight when wet caved in tile roofs and before many more days the gap between the two islands had been closed. One daring young man raced for the crater and raised his shirt on a pole to symbolize the claiming of the new property for Portugal.

Scientists think that volcanoes are caused by the terrific heat and pressure within the earth. The rock is probably as hot as 5,000 degrees but it is held down by the tremendous weight above it. In the center there may be sort of a yolk, so hot that it is liquid despite the pressure. When a weak spot develops somewhere in the crust, the liquefied basalt pops out like champagne.

How long do such volcanoes last? An expert in the Azores shrugs that most of the volcanoes which formed the islands of the Azores usually kept blowing for about a year according to available historical evidence. "But this one might have stopped since the last phone call. Or it may out-live us all."

At any rate the villagers on Fayal couldn't wait. They held out for weeks but finally all 3,000 of them were evacuated from their chocolate colored homes and the smothered grass and flowers of their gardens.

House Proposal Is Sound, But Tries to Do Too Much

From St. Petersburg Independent

Members of congress angered by the way the U. S. supreme court has taken the bit in its teeth with an inclination to establish itself, as Judge Learned Hand phrases it, as a "third legislative body," have offered up a host of proposals to limit the activities of the court.

The latest, approved by the house judiciary committee on a split vote, would prevent any federal law from killing state laws in the same field unless congress specifically says so. The bill is largely the result of the high court's decision in reversing the conviction of communist leader Steve Nelson under Pennsylvania's anti-subversion act. The high court ruled that congress in adopting the Smith anti-subversion act had preempted the field and that similar state laws were without effect.

In other fields, particularly in labor legislation, the high court has ruled that it was the intent of congress that federal law supersede state law. Obviously, in many instances the court to fit its own political bent has read into federal law an intent that was never there. For instance Rep. Howard Smith (D. Va.) author of the Smith act insists it was never the intent of congress to supersede state addition laws.

Thus the bill to prevent federal law from superseding state law in a given field unless that intent is specifically written out.

The intent of the bill is undoubtedly good, but it appears inevitable that it would create even more confusion than the supreme court's decisions. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers opposes this "shotgun approach" because "its effects would be retroactive and no one knows what those effects would be."

Rogers, of course, opposes any legislative restrictions on the supreme court.

The logical course for congress is to make its intent crystal clear in future legislation when it does not intend to infringe on state responsibilities. On laws already on the books, it would be simple enough to add amendments to return to the states those functions the supreme court says the federal government has pre-empted.

Indeed that is exactly what the house judiciary committee is doing in one instance. At the same time it approved the "shotgun bill," it also approved a measure that would specifically restore the effectiveness of any state anti-subversion laws affected by the high court's ruling in the Nelson case.

This is a sound approach. But in attempting to amend all federal laws similarly with a single bill, the committee is attempting to kill too many birds with one stone.

U. S. Embargo Against Red China Makes Little Sense in Peacetime

From the Toronto Globe and Mail

The relaxation of restrictions on trade with the communist bloc, announced by representatives of 15 western nations after a meeting in Paris, is a curiously half-hearted affair. The list of strategic goods whose sale to Russia and her satellites is forbidden has been revised, and many items removed from it. But the much stricter embargo against communist China remains untouched, presumably at the insistence of the United States.

This differential treatment is hard to justify on any rational grounds. It might have been thought that, if trade controls were in order at all, they would be applied more rigorously against the Soviet Union, the fountain-head of communism, and the chief military and economic threat to the west. The more severe rule against China seems to be a reflection of the U. S. policy of "non-recognition," based on the notion that if the west will just ignore it, the Peking regime will somehow collapse.

Whether directed against Russia or China, however, these trade restrictions make little sense today. They were adopted in 1951, during the Korean war, when China was engaged in armed conflict with the United Nations forces in Korea, and when Russia was actively supporting her. Seven years later, in a time of peace, they are an anachronism.

The principal argument used to justify continuance of the embargo is that it inhibits the military growth of the communist powers. This reasoning is based on a gross underestimate of the scientific and industrial capabilities of these countries. It is a hangover from the days when it was confidently assumed that the Russians and their allies could not create a modern war machine without help from the more advanced west. The Sputniks — to say nothing of the Soviet rockets and hydrogen bombs — should have cured this illusion; they certainly suggest that Moscow is not being unduly cramped by its inability to buy strategic materials from western Europe or North America.

There is also little doubt that the embargo has served to strengthen the solidarity of the whole communist bloc. The less industrialized members, unable to obtain advanced machinery and technical assistance from western countries, have become dependent upon Russia for these things. This inevitably has strengthened Moscow's influence, especially in China — the very thing which it was in the interest of the western powers to prevent.

There are certain categories of goods — atom-bomb components, rocket fuels and the like — which no one would seriously suggest selling to countries behind the iron curtain. But apart from these items, the sooner normal trade in ordinary commodities is resumed between east and west the better. Commerce between antagonistic nations can do much to reduce their antagonism. Moreover, with a recession threatening, the free world cannot afford to ignore the markets provided by perhaps a third of the world's population.

No Shortage of Music Centers During Summer

From the Norfolk, Neb., Daily News

"Where to go for a vacation this summer?" is becoming an easier and easier question for a music lover to answer. Just as the Izaak Walton disciple hies himself to where he can wet a line from sunrise to sunset, the devotee of symphony, chamber music, opera, vocal and last, but by no means least, jazz, will be happiest vacationing at or near some summer music center.

And his (or her, or their) choice is almost unlimited. For these days there's more summer music than you can shake a stick at. The Ivy League area hasn't had a monopoly of it for a long time.

The Hollywood Bowl, which opened its 37th annual "Symphonies under the Stars" Tuesday, gets no inferiority complex from New York City's Lewisohn stadium. On the same day summer vacationists at Miami Beach trooped into the first 1958 Pop concert by the University of Miami symphony Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Aug. 2, 1879.

The ladies connected with the Presbyterian Society of this city will have a Lawn Social and festival on the beautiful grounds of Mrs. David Smith, First Ward, on Wednesday evening next.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to participate in the enjoyment of the place and the function. The ladies are doing their full share toward the church, having undertaken to raise $1,000 to furnish the interior when the edifice is completed.

Exactly 80 Appleton retail establishments, representing practically every major organization in the city, that morning agreed to abide by the provisions of the administration's Emergency Prosperity code. By their agreement, Appleton became one of the first cities in the country where such action had been taken.

Evidence of the need for larger quarters was given at the courthouse by the fact two employees in the county treasurer's office were forced to work on small tables in the first floor corridor. There was not sufficient room in the treasurer's office for them.

Big Labor in Politics To be Campaign Theme

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The increasingly intimate association of some of the principal "big labor" spokesmen with the Democratic party cause will be the dominant theme of the Republican party of Wisconsin as it bids Wyngaard well as for the Democrats — in state politics as such.

The Republican strategic problem is to hold the allegiance of those conservative forces and the moderates that brought it power in the state for the last 20 years, and there is little else that is available that will seem very palatable to such voters. Surely there is little in the fiscal policies of the Eisenhower regime, as these conservatives see it, to win any votes for local Republicans this year.

The farm vote, however, much it has dwindled in the state in recent years, remains a key force in state elections. The Republicans can have little to say in the way of promises to the farmer. The record is too well known there. Mr. Benson stands for low subsidies, and there is nothing that Wisconsin Republican politicians can do about it. The spectre of political control of the state by big city labor leaders, therefore, sounds like a feasible alternative to some of the Republican strategists.

It is worthy of notice in this connection that the denunciations from the GOP are selective. They are directed toward the CIO, for the most part, and against the CIO's top man in the state, Charles Schultz, in particular. Schultz is a fairly inviting target. He has some opponents in his own camp, as he showed when another candidate got an impressive backing against him at the convention a week ago. But the Schultz theme means more.

CAREFUL CALCULATION

The Republicans know that there are many men of conservative, or non-radical, view in the craft unions.

They know that some of the craft union leadership is out of sympathy with the collectivist objectives of the CIO command. (One of the repeatedly stated reasons for the coolness of some CIO moguls toward George Haberman, chief of the merged AFL-CIO in Wisconsin, is their hunch that he is friendly to some Republican officeholders, which he doubtless is.)

It is necessary, therefore, to make a clear distinction between unions and union men, on the one hand, and the CIO and its top brass, on the other.

For the most part the CIO is concentrated in the southern Wisconsin industrial centers. AFL unions thrive everywhere in the state, many of the small towns included. On the whole, the AFL has not been associated in the popular mind with some of the political programs and economic prejudices of the CIO. For many voters outstate, presumably, the CIO can be attacked with impunity because it is unfamiliar and vaguely distasteful.

Soviet Air Power Much Greater Than West's

Gap Between Reds and U. S. Will Grow As Russ Production Begins Increase

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
Washington—At the Pentagon, they shudder when they speak of the "gap," which means the years 1960, 1961, 1962 and 1963. They shudder because in these years, the American government will flaccidly permit the Kremlin to gain an almost unchallengeable superiority in the nuclear striking power that was once our specialty. The pernicious facts that prove this terrible charge are as follows.

First, and most horrifying, there is the guided missile picture. The Soviets have already completed above 1,000 tests of ballistic missiles with ranges from 500 to 1400 miles—the ranges needed to neutralize or destroy our overseas bases. They have also tested several intercontinental ballistic missiles, whereas we have yet to test our first fully assembled Atlas.

Atlas and Titan, being true ICBMs, are the missiles that matter. On present projections, we shall have 30 Atlas and Titan missiles operational in 1960; 70 in 1961; and 130 in 1962. There the story will end, except that a few of the navy's submarine-borne Polaris missiles may be operational by 1962; and at some time, quite probably long after 1963, we shall begin to get the solid-fueled Minuteman missile.

Against this American missile striking power, the Soviets should have between 1,000 and 2,000 of their medium range missiles to neutralize our overseas bases in the "gap" years. They should further produce their first 100 intercontinental missiles in 1958, and they should reach a rate of output of 500 per year in 1960.

Second, there is the bomber picture, which is apparently thought to compensate for the sheer horror of the guided missile picture. The United States will complete its B-52 program for the Strategic Air Command in the year 1960. SAC will then have about 500 of these long-range bombers in units, plus some spares. SAC also will have about 1,400 medium-range B-47s, and will be starting to receive the first of its 70 planned B-58s, which are supersonic but still medium range. Jet tankers to give full striking power to the B-52s and B-58s will be available; but no jet tankers are to be provided for the B-47s.

With the existing unsatisfactory KC-97 tankers, the B-47s are heavily dependent on the overseas bases which are now being neutralized. B-47 striking power must therefore be depreciated by at least 60 per cent. Thus SAC's realistic striking power in 1961, 1962 and 1963 will be equivalent to 500 B-52s, 70 B-58s and about 500 B-47s. Soviet production of their Bison long-range bomber, comparable to our B-52, reached and long maintained the very high rate of 12 a month. It is further admitted that Bison output, although sharply cut back, is still going on at the rate of about four per month.

Margin Not Big
Thus it seems reasonable to give the Soviet SAC a basic striking power in the period of the "gap" amounting to 250 Bisons, plus 100 Bears (their very big, very long-range turbo-prop bomber), plus 1,000 Badgers (their equivalent of our B-47). Even if this is all, the American margin of bomber striking power will not be enormous. But six months ago, it became known the Soviets had produced the prototype of a 6-engine supersonic bomber, which should have the speed of our B-58 with full intercontinental range as well.

Third, the air defense picture further darkens the bomber picture. The Air Defense Command of the United States is presently equipped with a job lot of F-89s, F-94s, F-100s, and F-102s—about 1,900 planes in all. The worst of the job lot will be replaced in the years of the "gap" with the excellent F-106, but the F-106 contract has lately been cut back, so we shall still have a job lot. In addition, our radar warning system will be greatly improved.

In contrast NATO estimates give the Soviets today an Air Defense Command comprising 10,000 planes, also a job lot but the same sort of job lot we have. Replacement of obsolete Soviet aircraft with their superior Flashlight fighter is proceeding rapidly. Their air warning system has better radars than ours now, and is much denser than ours. And they have now completed a remarkably strong missile-based point defense system, of the Soviet Union, and are replacing anti-aircraft missiles in the satellites.

If we are honest about it, then, the Soviet air defense system is at least twice and perhaps three or four times as strong as ours. That logically cancels out any bomber superiority we may retain—assuming we retain any by the end of the "gap." As the Soviets will then have a projected superiority in missile striking power of at least ten-to-one, no wonder they shudder at the Pentagon.

7 Men Fined $100 Each for Morals Offenses With Girl, 15

Seven men and youths were fined $100 each today in municipal court for morals offenses with a 15-year-old Seymour girl.

The men are Pat Wilcox, 27, 923 Clark street, Seymour; Thomas Mullin, 20, route 1, Seymour; Jacob VanCamp, Jr., 22, route 1, Kaukauna; Robert Wojciehowski, 19, route 3, Seymour; Joseph Euclid, 26, route 1, Seymour; Floyd VanDenEng, 22, route 2, Kaukauna; and Francis Anthony, 19, 1054 W. Kimberly avenue, Kimberly. Wilcox, Mullin and Euclid paid their fines, the others were jailed.

They were rounded up after the girl's mother found her in the family's house with one of the men. The men and youths told police that the girl told them she was 18 and 19, although several admitted they knew her age. The men admitted relations with the girl on separate occasions between last December and last month.
The episodes came to light after the girl returned to her home early the morning of July 20 and found her father and mother waiting for her. Her father shouted as she and her boyfriend parked in the yard and her mother grasped the car door handle, police said. The youth driving became frightened and sped away, dragging the mother for a distance and injuring her arm, it was reported.
The girl fled to relatives, then was returned to Seymour and jailed in the Outagamie county jail.
Investigating the case were Undersheriff Robert Heinritz, Sheriff's Lt. Jack Zuelzke, Seymour Police Chief Bernard Plumb and County Police Capt. Ronald Decker.
The girl is held in the Outagamie county jail for juvenile authorities.

Modern Pirate Needs Help, Bob Nominates Candidates

BY ROBERT C. RUARK
A few days ago, a fellow by the name of Lyle H. Munson asked congress for a letter of marque and reprisal. In net effect such a document gives you the legal right to operate pretty much as a pirate. Munson evidently has no such designs but what he wants to do is interesting. The man has the idea that the United States government has fallen on its face where American prisoners are concerned (Cuba, for a starter) and figures he can tool in there with a helicopter and a few hardy souls, armed with ping-pong paddles, and spring a few fellow citizens loose.

Ruark

This doesn't sound like a scheme that would meet with great approval by the various life insurance companies but Mr. Munson (love the name) Lyle for an adventurer, by the way) has received hundreds of phone calls from volunteers. Well, I don't think it's the heat that got to Munson because he appears to be well-grounded in the cloak-and-dagger stuff, since he served in both the OSS and CIA.
Crooks Deteriorate
One volunteer he ain't going to get is a burglar who broke into a home in Yonkers (what are Yonkers?) and got scared off by a lady who threw a pillow at him. They just ain't making housebreakers the way they used to. Built-in obsolescence. No sooner than you get your new burglar well-broken in and they come out with a new model. You want to go around with last year's burglar and have all of your neighbors looking down their noses at you?

I hope Mr. Munson isn't too discouraged because there are reports on some really intrepid types who might just fit into his table of organization. Like there's a guy named Joseph Siniscalchi out on Long Island and there's a bird that has a grudge against him. The very second Joe steps outside, there's this bird buzzing him. It doesn't hate anyone else in his family. Joseph has no known enemies except this bird. What pleases me is that Joseph Siniscalchi is not spooked. Said he, "It made me mad for a while. I guess it's a friend now. I think I'd miss it if it didn't show up." A man with a heart of oak.

Now if Mr. Munson isn't pleased with this starter, I propose the names of three lawyers who represented the teamsters in their efforts to boot out Jimmy Hoffa. They asked for a small fee of only $350,000 and just won a law suit which pared this down to a lousy $210,000. Good solid men.
And if all else fails, the navy has developed a machine that can learn.

I am not terribly clear about how this machine works, but it seems to have a brain that actually learns as time goes by, and doesn't need a faint fumbling hand of man to help it. The story says: "It holds promise of being able to read, write, talk, and even to produce itself if given the necessary tools." This the navy says.
Well, I have a suggestion. The navy should really crash program this machine, so we can bail out some citizens, stop the killing in the Middle East, cure cancer, knock off heart trouble and last, but not least, important:

Keep that bird from buzzing Mr. Joseph Siniscalchi. What the machine does with Mr. Hoffa and his lawyers is up to the machine's mind, but for the last time, machine, get that bloody bird off Mr. Joseph Siniscalchi's back!

Otherwise, take me to your leader.

Auto License Plates Should be Kept Clean, in Easily-Seen Spot

Hotrod Harry figured the only reason the state issues auto license plates is to let its officers see at a glance who has paid his current taxes. So it didn't bother Harry when his plates became covered with mud or when his front plate was twisted in an accident and left hanging by one bolt. After all, he'd paid the current license fee, hadn't he?
But Harry was stopped on the highway by a state patrolman one day and given a warning ticket. The officer explained the plates must be kept in readable condition if they are to have any value in aiding police to recover stolen cars.

When Harry found he could not make his front plate legible, he applied to the motor vehicle department for a duplicate. He found duplicates cost $1 if the plate is less than a year old, nothing if more than a year old. It was also necessary to surrender the old plate.

Wolfson Consents To SEC Injunction

New York—(U—) Louis E. Wolfson has consented to a permanent injunction enjoining him from alleged manipulation of American Motors Corp. common stock, the securities and exchange commission announced here today.

Paul Windels, Jr., SEC regional administrator, said the injunction applied also to all persons acting in concert with him.

The SEC had filed a complaint against Wolfson on June 24, asserting Wolfson or his agents caused statements to be published which depressed the price of the stock.

The same day, a U. S. District Court restraining order was issued against Wolfson.

Search Ended When Child Is Discovered In Father's Auto

Lynchburg, Va.—(U—) There was quite an uproar when Sverre Paulsen, 41, disappeared from his home here last night.

City police searched a wooded area behind his home, neighbors looked about their premises, state police were alerted and a missing person alarm even got as far as North Carolina.

Four hours after he was reported missing, the youngster turned up—in the back seat of his father's car in Greensboro, N. C.

Martin L. Paulsen, a salesman, found his son when he unpacked his bags in Greensboro. He said he didn't know the boy was in the car.

Lazy Action
Being somewhat lazy about fixing his front license plate rack, Harry thought he'd do the next best thing. He propped the plate in the front window. It wasn't good enough. Besides obstructing his vision in violation of the law, Harry was violating a provision of the vehicle code that requires that plates be firmly and rigidly attached in a horizontal position in a conspicuous place.

Harry did avoid some of the other common violations of the license plate display law. One of the most frequent violations is the use of a trailer hitch that obscures one or more numbers of the rear plate. On some foreign cars, license holders are too narrow for American plates with the result that either the numbers or the date are sometimes obscured. It is not improper to attach various identification tags to your license plate, but they should not be allowed to cover part of the numbers or the date.

The penalty for violating most of the provisions of the law regarding license plates is a fine of up to $200, six months in jail, or both.

(The State Bar of Wisconsin offers this column to inform, not to advise. Facts may change the application of the law.)

Lawrence Says Summit Talks Should Show Red Hypocrisy UN, as International Protector, Must Send More Men to Mideast

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — It looks like a summit conference will be held soon in Geneva with or without General De Gaulle. The meeting will begin within the United Nations Security Council, but with ample time for side conferences.

Thus all points of view probably will be satisfied on questions of procedure, and the big emphasis rather will be on the propaganda side. For what else are the speeches and public statements intended to be but efforts to convince world opinion of the rightness of each nation's viewpoint?

The day is gone in diplomacy when a few statesmen from the big powers can sit around the table and decide the fate of millions of people throughout the world.

There was a time during World War II when even Winston Churchill favored the "sphere of influence" idea, with the major powers dividing up the earth's surface on the basis of agreed-upon jurisdictions. But since then the smaller powers have rightly sought a voice in their own destiny. The United Nations gives it to them under the way the general assembly is set up and by rotating seats for the non-permanent members of the security council.

Protection from Aggression

The real issue in the future is going to be how to protect small nations from the indirect aggression that threatens them. Moscow says Britain and the United States, by landing troops in Jordan and Lebanon, are guilty of "aggression," but this is just a smokescreen to divert attention from the plots that have helped the communists to keep the Middle East in turmoil for the last year.

What the United States would like to see is a full and comprehensive disclosure of the facts, and especially the causes of the problems that have emerged in the Middle East.

As Secretary Dulles puts it, the world is in grave danger of war today unless indirect aggression, as now being practiced, can be checked. He says that, if war is to be avoided, the Soviet Union will have to agree that the subject of indirect aggression and all practices designed "to foment civil strife inside a country" shall be brought under the jurisdiction of the United Nations.

No One Protector

This is the paramount issue that the United States will press for attention at the forthcoming meeting of the security council and at any summit conferences collateral thereto. For the United States is determined that no one nation shall set itself up as the protector of any group of small nations. This, it is felt, is an international responsibility and should be vested in the machinery of the United Nations.

The Soviets have never given evidence of either sincerity or honesty in their international relations. They give lip service to agreements and then clandestinely violate them.

Far East Example

The most flagrant example today is in the Far East, where the Soviets and their red Chinese stooges have refused to agree that the United Nations appoint a commission to settle the Korean dispute. A top-level conference at Geneva in 1954 was futile. There denunciations of the UN were uttered by the communists, and no progress has been made since about giving to the Koreans the political independence they deserve. The communist troops not only occupy North Korea five years after the truce was made, but have war planes there in violation of the armistice provisions.

The world apparently needs more proof of Soviet hypocrisy. Another summit conference will certainly furnish it. There is always heard the cliché that it does no harm to talk to the Russians and that "at least we shall know where we stand." One wonders how long the free nations are going to make paper agreements that the Soviets ignore but which tie the hands of free nations. More troops, therefore, should be sent to the Middle East—this time by the United Nations—to prevent the communists and their main agent, Nasser, from continuing to stir up trouble in the Arab countries generally and thus threatening the peace of the world. It's the only practical way now to check indirect aggression and avoid a big war.

Chrysler to Distribute French Auto

Detroit — Chrysler corporation entered the small car field today with an imported car.

L. L. Colbert, Chrysler president, said his firm planned to buy a substantial interest in the French auto-building firm of Simca, the biggest non-government owned passenger car builder in France.

Colbert added that "as part of the arrangement, Chrysler has entered into an agreement for the cooperative development of world markets for Chrysler and Simca products by the two companies."

He said that Chrysler planned to acquire the entire interest presently held in Simca by Ford Motor company.

Combine Organizations

"This arrangement with Simca," Colbert said, "is primarily for the purpose of combining the overseas organizations of Chrysler and Simca to create a new and major force in the world automotive market. In addition we are continuing our studies on a North American-type small car for possible production in our United States and Canadian plants to serve the North American continent."

Colbert said the new arrangement called for "the use of the overseas facilities of both companies for the assembly and distribution of Chrysler and Simca products."

Chrysler, Colbert said, will be the sole distributor of Simca cars and other products in the U. S. and Canada with Chrysler dealers getting first priority for any new Simca dealerships. Some 800 dealers in the U. S. currently handle the Simca line. About 40 per cent of them are Chrysler dealers.

Simca Line

The current Simca line includes the 4-cylinder, 96-inch wheelbase Aronde, the Ariane 4 and 8-cylinder models on a 108-inch wheelbase and the Vedette V-8 on a 108-inch wheelbase. The Aronde costs about $1,700 at New York port of entry and the Vedette about $2,200.

put out quickly as emergency vehicles from six communities converged on the scene in quiet farm countryside.

The injured were taken to four hospitals by 15 ambulances. Authorities said most of the injuries were minor. All the injured were riding in the diner, two dome observation cars and eight coaches that left the tracks.

Leo T. Crowley of Chicago, director, was among the passengers aboard the train, en route from Chicago to Seattle. Wash. He escaped injury, and declined comment as he boarded another train.

The 4-unit diesel and remaining cars went on to Milwaukee where six more cars were added to provide accommodation for the uninjured, wishing to continue their journeys.

The cause of the wreck was undetermined and there was no estimate of the damage, or when repairs would be completed.

Passenger and freight trains were routed over an adjoining track.

Ike Favors Middle East Session About Aug. 12

United States embassy in Moscow is too fresh in the minds of the American people," Eisenhower said.

The demonstrations were directed against United States landings in Lebanon. The state department took the position they were organized by the Soviet government.

The embassy building was splattered with ink, suffered broken windows and other damage.

In his discussion of indirect aggression, Eisenhower was putting into formal words much the same thing that Secretary of State Dulles said on the subject at a news conference yesterday.

At that time Dulles said: "If the Soviet Union does not want war they will almost have to agree that these practices should be brought under some kind of control by the United Nations."

From the U. S. point of view the proposed conference is shaping up as a diplomatic battle in which Khrushchev will try to prove his charges of U. S.-British aggression against Lebanon and Jordan and Eisenhower will try to prove Soviet-backed indirect aggression against several Middle East states.

Outlines U. S. Stand

Dulles outlined the United States approach to the prospective summit meeting in a news conference yesterday. He made these major points on the summit and related issues:

The United States will probably recognize the new revolutionary government in Iraq since its Middle Eastern allies such as Turkey feel this is the "wise and prudent course."

The United States will withdraw its troops from Lebanon if asked to do so by "a duly constituted government of Lebanon." In this connection Dulles mentioned that United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld is already taking measures to strengthen the U. N. observer group in Lebanon and thereby create greater security for that nation.

Eisenhower, Khrushchev, British Prime Minister Macmillan and other chiefs of government can go ahead with a security council meeting without participation of French Premier De Gaulle, who opposes it. But the split between De Gaulle and his western allies on the kind of summit meeting to hold has not damaged "the fundamentals of our relationship" with De Gaulle.

Zeppo Marx Called To Indiana Court On Bookmaking Probe

Los Angeles — Zeppo Marx, 34, was subpoenaed to appear before an Indianapolis federal grand jury probe of a bookmaking racket.

Zeppo—real name Herbert—is the youngest of the four Marx brothers. He was hunted for 36 hours by agents of the U. S. treasury department before he made an appointment to accept the subpoena yesterday at his attorney's office.

He told newsmen he was dumbfounded at being included among nine men subpoenaed for the Indiana probe. His attorney wouldn't let Marx, a filmmaker agent, make any further statement.

"He is not a prospective defendant, but merely a witness," said the attorney.

Cites Point System For Decrease in Fatal Traffic Accidents

Madison — A slight downward trend in highway fatalities has resulted in part from a driver's penalty point system, Melvin Larson, Wisconsin motor vehicle department commissioner, said Thursday.

Larson said 1,750 persons lost their lives since the point system was put into effect two years ago. This compared with 1,870 during the two years before it began, Larson said.

The saving of 120 lives, Larson said, is not due entirely to the penalty point system but it has contributed to an important degree.

Under the system, a driver loses his license when he collects 12 points in a one-year period. Twenty other states use the system.

Stuffed Shirt Robbers Nabbed

Two Armed Men Hide $25,000 Inside Clothing

Elverson, Pa. — Two armed men who robbed a bank yesterday, stuffing more than $25,000 in cash and bonds inside their sports shirts, were captured two hours later in a wooded area.

Leonard T. Ivey, 24, Covington, Ky., was wounded in a brief gun battle as 75 state troopers and FBI agents closed in.

The loot—$10,500 in cash and $15,190 in bonds—was recovered. It was spilling out of their shirts.

Clyde Cope, 41, Cincinnati, Ohio, surrendered first, walking out of the woods to the highway with his hands up. He had a .38 caliber revolver, police said.

Throws Gun Away

Then Ivey shouted: "I won't try anything. I don't want any more bullets pumped into me." He threw away his sawed-off shotgun and was carried on a stretcher, wounded in the leg and back.

Ivey was in fair condition at a hospital. Cope was charged with armed robbery at a preliminary hearing last night and jailed.

Police, who described the men as professionals, said they barged into the Elverson National bank 25 miles from Philadelphia after the noon hour rush and shouted, "This is a stickup."

They ordered three employees to stand still. The door to a teller's cage was kicked in and the men were scooping up money when Earl Witmer, president of the bank, pulled the trigger on his revolver.

But the safety catch was on and the two spotted him.

The men dashed out a door, passing a cashier coming in, and drove off in a car which police said had been stolen earlier. The cashier was able to give a description of the car and this led to the capture.

Rough Riders Hold Annual Reunion, May Be the Last One

Las Vegas, N. M. — Six of Teddy Roosevelt's rough riders got together for a dinner Thursday night.

They were the first arrivals for the famous regiment's annual reunion. Of the original 1,300, only 44 survive. About half of them are expected to attend the meeting—possibly the last—that runs through the weekend.

The Spanish American War veterans meeting last night were J. A. Roland, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Charles O. Hopping, Long Beach, Calif.; Dick Shanefelt Lawrence, Kan.; Ben Colbert, Tulsa, Okla.; Billy McGinty, Ripley, Okla.; and Starr M. Wetmore, Arkansas City, Kan.

Policeman Gives Youth Cigaret, Loses Wallet

Norfolk, Va. — A young man about 18 or 19 approached Policeman John F. Deloatch in a Norfolk theater yesterday and asked for a cigarette. Deloatch obliged.

As Deloatch put the pack back in his pocket, the youth told him he had dropped something. The officer stooped over, the youth struck him on the left hip and ran. With him went Deloatch's wallet—which contained $130, most of the paycheck the officer had cashed earlier.

days, $2 over the old rate. Eligibility for 3-week vacations was cut from 20 years to 12. Sick leave was upped from 12 days to 21, accumulated at a rate of one-half day per month. Within 60 days the company will go to a weekly pay instead of the present every two weeks.

In addition, classification of various workers was revised and others will be revised.

The new agreement was released by Robert Schlieve, Teamsters Local 563 secretary-treasurer, and verified by Harold Schweppi, chief negotiator for Consolidated.

Retail Consolidated drivers were boosted from a $37 weekly base pay to $52 and from a .55 to .6-cent per unit commission to 1.7 cents. Adjustments also were made in commission rates on butter, eggs and processed cheese. Retail routes were re-defined to include sales to vending machines. The contract also includes a reopening clause for vending machine sales.

Wholesale route drivers got a $1 boost in base pay to $52 weekly and a boost to 1-cent per unit commission, up 1-cent. An increase also was made in eggs, butter and processed cheese commissions.

Ice cream route drivers went from $51 to $57 in weekly base pay, got 1-cent gallon increase in per-gallon commission (to 44 cents) and a commission on resale items (cones, fountain supplies, etc.)

All route drivers are guaranteed a $75 weekly minimum. The average retail route sale is 12,500 units; the average wholesale route 20,000, union officials said. Unit structures also were revised, including classification of small units as double units for pay purposes.

Hourly workers will start at $1.91 per hour, 28 cents over the old $1.52 rate. After 90 days they will be paid $1.91, (was $1.65), and after six months the rate will be $2.02, (was $1.82). The latter rate is the scale for unskilled labor. Semi-skilled labor went to $2.12 from $1.92 and skilled from $2.02 to $2.22, 20-cent boosts.

The teamsters also got a dues checkoff, an arbitration proceedings clause (there had been none before), military service counted as time worked for computation of sick leave and vacation and $1.25 daily allowance a meal for out-of-town drivers.

Schlieve said the agreement was the best negotiated in the state dairy industry. Consolidated's Morning Glory operation is one of the big three in the milk shed north of Milwaukee—the others are Fairmont and Verifine.

About 110 workers are covered by the agreement and the strike affected about 2,200 Fox Cities families and their home deliveries of dairy products.

Sokolsky Questions Value of United Fund-Raising for Charity Groups

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

One of the grave problems that faces persons of good will is how to give to charity in an era of high taxes.

Shall one give to the United this and 'Amalgamated that or shall one select some few particular charities, to which one enjoys giving?

Furthermore, everybody has had the experience of giving as much as he can afford to a federation of charities or united community fund or united hospital fund or something like that and continuing to receive requests from hundreds of organizations and institutions just the same.

I know a man who is, according to my pocketbook, a very big giver—might be, as much as $25,000 a throw. But he was told by one of these organizations that he did not give enough; that it was expected that a man of his wealth would give more to this particular charity because the fellow who was doing the collecting said so.

Heart Fund On Own

The heart funds do not go in for federations or united drives. They are on their own. So are polio and cancer. The main reason undoubtedly is that they get more money that way and enjoy a greater independence. Fund-raising is an expensive business and a share of it goes to professionals on the theory that the laborer is entitled to his share. But when one gives to a charity there is always the thought that the giver wants to be sure that the institution gets his money and it is not dissipated en route.

My own feeling is that charity is over-organized in this country and that the giver no longer has a sense of participation. He might be active in a drive or on a committee, but actually he does not know what it is all about. For instance, what is the

Chuter Legion Meets Kaukauna In League Tilt

Little Chute — A pair of win streaks will be on the line when the Kaukauna and Little Chute Legion teams meet at 2:30 here Saturday afternoon.

Probable starting pitcher for Little Chute will be Owen Vandenberg. Kaukauna will send Tony Van Zealand or Tom Frank to the hill with Lee Wachel in reserve.

In the first meeting between the teams this season Little Chute won a 16 to 11 offensive display at the Kaukauna park.

Court Orders House Repair Within 6 Months

Building Inspector Ordered Demolition; Now Must Give Permit

Claude A. Robbins has six months to renovate his vacant house at 827 E. North street, Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell has ruled.

Robbins, who lives in St. Paul, Minn., had the building condemned the first part of July by Building Inspector Walter Bogan. Bogan ordered the house razed by Sept. 2, but Robbins filed suit to stop the order and reinstate a building permit granted by Bogan last December.

When the permit was issued, Robbins wrote Bogan a letter promising to renovate the house by June 20. Bogan said minor work had been done but the bulk of inside and outside repairs were not completed when he cancelled the permit.

Judge Parnell conferred Thursday with Robbins' attorney, City Atty., Don Jury and Bogan.

Conditions Set
The court ordered Bogan to issue a building permit under the following conditions:

"Plans for remodeling be obtained in two weeks, contract let in three weeks, work start within a month and the work completed within four months.

Judge Parnell said the schedule was not an exact one but would give the court an idea if Robbins was acting in good faith. Although the schedule specifies completion in four months, the court set a 6-month deadline.

Judge Parnell warned Robbins that if the work is not done, the building permit will be rescinded and the house ordered demolished.

The house was purchased in 1953 by Miss Edith Brunschweiler, also of St. Paul, and sold to Robbins last year. It has been vacant for about six years.

Former Appleton Restaurateurs Purchase Hotel

Weyauwega — Archie's hotel has changed hands. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nagreen, former owners of the Log Inn near Appleton, purchased the hotel from Mr. and Mrs. Archie Durand.

The Nagreens will take control Tuesday. They announced they will open the Chatterbox room to youngsters under 18 on Friday nights and run it as a beer bar for youngsters over 18 on Saturdays and Sundays. They will retain the present staff, according to Duane Nelson, Nagreen's son-in-law who will become assistant manager at the hotel. The name will also be retained.

The Nagreens gave up the Log Inn when the widening of Highway 41 forced its closing. They formerly operated the Club Terrace near Appleton. They have been in the tavern and restaurant business for 22 years.

Durand purchased the hotel from George Dobbins in 1948. He and his wife plan to remain residents of Weyauwega.

Kasper Released From U. S. Prison in Atlanta

Atlanta — A racial agitator John Kasper stepped from a federal prison today and said he would return at once to the fight for segregation which brought him a 1-year prison term last year.

He was set free at the Atlanta federal prison shortly before 9 a.m. This thwarted his supporters' plans for a public demonstration at Tallahassee, Fla., where he served eight months at the federal reformatory.

He was sentenced to a year for contempt of federal court because of his rabble-rousing activities at Clinton, Tenn., in connection with school desegregation there and received four months off for good behavior.

Proxmire Hails Free Information Measure

Sometimes an idea comes to her in the middle of the night, and she then gets up and writes it down. There have been times when she has been "neck deep in books" in search of material for some contest she has entered, she said. She enters few TV contests, mainly because she isn't too interested in watching television.

Serious about her hobby, Miss Ulmen believes that the slant of any entry is important. In the Li'l Abner contest her goal was to think up a novel name that still made sense for a little girl to have. She also thinks it's important to keep hoping for that big winner, even though it takes years.

Her ideas must work. They paid off this morning when she received her $25,000 check.

Nobody Knows How U. S. Flag Will Look

BY WALTER BREEDE

New York—The question of what to do about Alaska's forty-ninth star has flag manufacturers up in the air and flag buyers in a tizzy. The manufacturers, who turn out an estimated seven million star-spangled banners each year, don't know what to plan for. Some say they'll keep on making flags with 48 stars until the design of the new 49-star flag is officially decided.

This may not happen for another year. "We wish the government would make up its mind," says a big New York flag producer, "but whatever they decide, we'll be ready for it. If we have to, we can work three shifts."

Less enthused about a prospective change in design are dealers with large quantities of 48-star flags on hand.

"The easiest way out," says a Providence, R. I., dealer with three dozen flags in stock, "is just to burn them and forget them."

Puzzle for Business

Also far from happy, are owners of office buildings, amusement parks, banks, hotels and other big users. Frank W. Kridel, executive vice president and general manager of the Hotels Astor and Manhattan here, bemoans the fact that his hotels have 59 flags on hand that cost $3,000. He wants President Eisenhower to approve a simple change—like sewing a blue star on the white stripe directly under the blue field—that would save existing flags.

Flag manufacturers, with a fortune tied up in 48-star flags, insist that the present version of Old Glory, even without addition of an extra star, can be flown legally for years to come.

"That goes even if Hawaii is admitted as a fiftieth state," one manufacturer asserts. "There's nothing that says you have to have a definite number of stars. Any flag that has ever been officially adopted is all right. You can even fly the Betty Ross flag."

Old Flags to Burn

The armed services, the postal service and other federal government agencies are expected to set a stricter interpretation.

"What will we do about our 48-star flags? When we get the order, we'll just burn 'em all," says a U. S. navy spokesman here.

The change to a 49-star flag has other economic ramifications. Parker Bros. Inc., of Salem, Mass., a leading producer and publisher of games, foresees overnight obsolescence for thousands of its games which are based on a nation of 48 states and an electoral college with 531 votes.

Map makers face similar problems. One special problem confronting flag manufacturers is the possibility that Hawaii may soon be admitted as the fiftieth state. That would make the 49-star flag obsolete.

"Lots of folks may not buy the 49-star flag," explains one manufacturer. "They may hold off until Hawaii is admitted and we get a flag with 50 stars."

August Opens Under Canopy Of Fair Skies

August opened beneath fair skies in the Fox Cities and Wisconsin today with clear and pleasant weather predicted through Sunday.

Sunny weather prevailed throughout the state Thursday as the mercury climbed into the 80s, about normal for the season. Appleton, along with Madison and Lone Rock, topped the readings with 85. Cool breezes off Lakes Michigan and Superior held maximum temperatures to the 70s in the lake areas.

The overnight low in Appleton was 60 degrees. By 11:15 this morning the thermometer had risen to 78 and promised to get quite a bit higher. Wind at 10 o'clock this morning was from the south at 12 miles an hour and the barometer reading was an even 80 inches.

Temperatures dropped into the low 60s over much of Wisconsin during the night. Black River Falls was the coolest spot with a minimum of 47 and Milwaukee warmest with 55.

Presidio, Texas, and Gila Bend, Ariz., set the warmup pace for the nation Thursday with 106 degrees and Big Piney, Wyo., was the coolest spot early today with a low of 31.

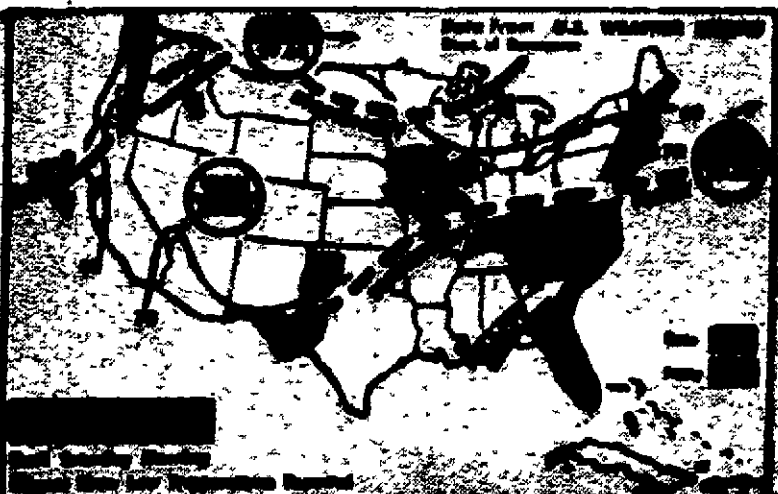

The early forecast predicted fair and dry weather will persist over the weekend for most of Wisconsin with a gradual rising trend in temperatures. The low tonight will be in the upper 50s or low 60s. The outlook for Sunday is fair and warm.

The extended forecast says temperatures will average from two to four degrees above normal for the state. The normal high is in the mid 70s in the north and in the 80s south. The normal low is in the 50s north and low 60s south. Precipitation will be slight with a chance of scattered showers Tuesday or Wednesday.

Neckline Dips Dizzily, Waist Climbs High in Balmain's Show

Paris—Necklines took their first dizzy dips of the season in the Pierre Balmain collection.

It was perhaps as well that they did, for there was nothing else in the sedate Balmain collection to raise the blood pressure. He keeps skirts at the knee line, the waist up high where everybody seems to have pushed it this time, and the neckline lightly cupped.

The new décolletage, designed to give you "vertigo" (giddiness) according to Balmain, is really a double dip and owes its uplift to "an interior artifice" called the "gorgerin." It gives the bare-bosomed effect of a half-shell bra.

Balmain presents suits in two versions. One has a tunic-length jacket cupped in at the bottom of the hip with a Chesterfield air (this one so far has not shown up elsewhere.) The other, right in this season's groove, has a very short jacket hiked up in front.

Dresses and coats often have full, gathered-on sleeves, and this, with the tapering torso or stem, looks even more like a mushroom than Cardin's mushroom silhouette.

For formal wear these big puffy sleeves are short or elbow length and often covered with ornate embroidery to contrast with a plain velvet sheath. Another top-heavy trick is pulled off with ruffs or clown collars on dresses and with big collars of longhaired fur (fox and show leopard) on cloth coats with swinging skirts.

Stately Mannequins

Balmain's mannequins must be the tallest in Paris. They parade his creations like real clothes horses. He has two new ones this season: Carol Scott, a freckle-faced redhead from Chicago, and Anita Donaldson of Stockholm, Sweden. Anita is a very young beginner, with pinkish blonde hair, a tilted

Couple Entertains Daughter, Family

Mrs. Robert D. Grover and sons, David and Karl, arrived on July 16 from Asheville, N. C., to visit for several weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gail, 1826 N. Division street.

While Mrs. Grover is in Appleton, Grover, who is with the United States Weather bureau, is presently serving with the international geophysical year, an airforce project at station A, North Pole.

Outdoor Sports Easy Way To Whittle Waistline

Why not have a calorie burning party, now that summer is here?

The easiest way to do it is to exercise, easier at this season than any other. You can eat less and exercise to your heart's content usually without fatiguing yourself.

Take your choice of sports. Swimming, that all-around muscle tightener also develops muscles, particularly in the arms and thighs. It helps broaden shoulders and gives a feeling of well-being and accomplishment as you become more proficient with your crawl or overhand.

Golf is a wonderful waistline cincher, but if a golf course isn't within your grasp, there are other sports.

How many fat tennis players do you know? A strenuous game, it will surely shake off ounces. Have you tried your hand at rowing? There is the ladylike game of badminton, too, as well as hiking and roller skating, all good for burning off excess poundage.

Bicycling is a form of exercise that may appeal to young or old, fat and skinny. It helps slim the calves of legs which may have become flabby from too much relaxation. Thighs get their share of exercise, too, as you stretch when you cycle, placing the weight of your body on the feet as you push the pedals down. It helps flatten the abdomen and slim arms and wrists.

Time was when Americans walked miles to school, in the fields and to the factory during the daily routine. The Sunday stroll was an outing. Too many of us have become sitters, relaxing in comfortable arm chairs, in automobiles, trains and planes.

Many of the country's health experts have been urging a return to some form of daily exercise to raise the general level of physical condition. Develop an interest in a sport that you may be able to do the year round as well as one you may enjoy during the summer months.

nose and provocative face. She wore Balmain's shortest skirt.

While he likes black as does everybody else, and also bright red as everybody else, Balmain pursues a rather lonely preference for parma violet. He tucks bunches of violets into the draped bosoms of some of his models. One violet chiffon floor-trailing formal has the new dizzy dip bra top made of violets.

Lavish Furs
A long, intricately draped white jersey sheath has a gold leather and leopard skin belt up under the bust, and is quite bare to the waist in back.

Then there is a big ball gown in tulle faintly printed with leopard spots, topped with a leopard half-bra.

Balmain always likes to make a bravura gesture with furs. This time it's a knee-length snow leopard cape, bordered with red fox. False cape effects abound in the collection, incidentally, and some big collars have long scarf ends, crossed over and belted in at a high waistline, and continuing to the hem.

Paris hasn't seen so many belts in many a season, but most of them hug the rib cage and might almost qualify as "throat-upholders."

Technical Trouble Postpones Firing Of Thor Missile

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—The air force ran into technical troubles again in its latest attempt to shoot a 1,500 mile Thor ballistic missile.

The postponement of the launching yesterday followed in the wake of an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile scrub earlier in the week.

The air force said both missiles would be rescheduled for firing at an early date.

The last launchings of both the Thor and the Atlas ended abruptly with blowups shortly after takeoff.

The Thor, a 65-foot war weapon developed by Douglas Aircraft company, is expected to be operational by December. The first units will be assigned to the Royal Air force in England.

The missile also will be used as the first stage vehicle for the air force's moon rocket, expected to be launched during the third week in August. The Thor was designed for intermediate range, but it has traveled as far as 2,500 miles on a previous test.

Ann Warns Young Sweethearts Against Parking and Sparking

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: My boy friend and I have a problem. We want to get married but we aren't of age. We can't get our parents' consent—in fact they blew their tops when we mentioned it. If we both got jobs we could get along O. K.

Landers

We're in love and we spend every possible minute together. So far we've been able to keep our emotions in check but to be honest with you, I don't know how much longer we can hold out. It's getting to be a tough battle for both of us.

We know of other couples who are in the same boat and they don't know the answer either. Please give us some advice, Ann. It's awfully tough to be young and in love—MOOD INDIGO.

If you think it's tough to be young and in love, let me tell you it's a lot tougher to be pregnant and unmarried.

There's a lot passing for love that is nothing more than a chemical reaction to the moon, soft music, and just being together. If you're wise you'll avoid temptation by staying well out of reach of those biological booby-traps.

Double and triple date. Have your evening's entertainment planned in advance. Don't just ride around and wind up petting. Avoid shady lanes and pitch-black rooms. Impose a curfew on yourselves even if your parents don't insist. Remember that prolonged necking can lead to serious trouble.

Read this carefully and pass it on to the others in your crowd who are having "the same problem." It could spell the difference between genuine happiness and some botched-up lives.

DEAR ANN: Five years ago my younger brother (then 24) borrowed $500 to get married on. Ten months later they had a set of twins. In 1954 he had to buy a new car because the old one was falling apart and a car is essential in his work. That same year they had a third son.

In 1956 his wife had a baby girl (which made everyone happy after three boys) but she later had complications and had to go back to the hospital. The bill was $250 and my brother asked me for a loan. I let him have it even though he still hadn't paid back the $500.

Last week my brother's wife showed up at a party in a fur jacket which her husband gave her "as a surprise for her birthday."

My wife is furious. She says if my brother were any kind of a man he'd pay his debts FIRST. I feel sorry for my brother and don't feel that he should be criticized. My wife said to write to you.—VICTOR

Sorry, Victor, I'm with your wife. Just because the stork is practically a household pet at your brother's home is no reason for you to make excuses for him.

In my book your brother owes you $750. The price of the fur jacket should have been applied to this debt. People who owe money and indulge themselves in luxuries have no sense of responsibility.

DEAR ANN: What do you think of a man with teen-aged daughters who carries pictures in his wallet of half-dressed cabaret dancers? He doesn't know these cheap hussies. A fellow at work gave him the pictures.

I've asked him fifty times to get rid of those trashy pictures but he says they are always good for a laugh. Frankly, I don't see anything funny. Please straighten out this bald-headed goof.—TESS

Tell "the bald-headed goof" that most men carry pictures of their families in their wallets. If someone should happen to find his wallet on the street they would think, of course, the half-clad cabaret dancers are his daughters. (That should do it!)

Petite Plant With Orchid Hued Flowers 'Everblooming'

BY KATHERINE B. WALKER

One of my favorite reference books on horticulture is written in a very precise, scholarly manner, with unnecessary adjectives kept to the absolute minimum. Imagine my surprise, then, to find among the highly technical language a note describing Mexican Foxglove as "a darling little plant!"

After this single outburst, the author resumes his usual style, but since I, too, am pretty well-infatuated with this tiny south-of-the-border plant, I was pleased to learn that it had evidently affected him in similar fashion.

Until recently, Mexican Foxglove was classified as Tetraena mexicana, and the majority of growers still list it this way. Properly, however, it is now Allophyton mexicanum, and catalogs which have not already made the change will no doubt do so at the first opportunity. Don't confuse this with Maurandia, the Climbing Foxglove.

Describe Plant

Mexican Foxglove has a very short stem and long, oblong, leathery leaves in rosette form. From summer on, the plant certainly earns the adjective everblooming, continuously sending up numerous stalks bearing clusters of little trumpet-shaped flowers of a lovely orchid color. The large, lobed lip, which characterizes members of the Figwort family (to which the garden foxglove belongs) is whitish, and the throat of the blossom is a deep purple-violet. Although the flowers are small, they are exquisite and abundant, and in truth this is indeed "a darling little plant."

Mexican Foxglove needs a slightly cooler temperature than normal for most homes, so I keep mine in an east window in the kitchen. Here it finds cool air, extra humidity, and the diffused sunlight it prefers. Pot the plants in very humusy soil; add quantities of leaf-mold, or use peatmoss if supplemental feedings can be given. Keep the soil evenly moist, never allowing it to stay so soaked that the fine roots will rot, but never permitting the plant to shrivel from lack of moisture.

Warm Breezes Induce Lawn, Beach Parties

Summer parties can be less formal, and less expensive than winter shindigs. A lawn party is fun and expenses can be kept to a minimum, even if the folks let you have a couple of members of a band for dancing. It gives the crowd a chance to get all dressed up in their dance clothes.

A beach party is lots of fun too, and the whole crowd can supply cooking talent, even if you foot the bill for the goodies. A fun game is Luta-De Galho, the chicken fight, a Brazilian teenage game, ideal for the beach.

Two players may pit themselves against each other, or a

Uses 1 Suitcase
Well Traveled Passport Director Gives Blueprint for Packing Bag

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Writer

Next to leaving home an essential, the worst thing a traveler can do is take along too much.

"Much of the pleasure in a trip can be lost because of too much luggage," insists Miss Frances Knight — who besides handing out passports for American tourists headed overseas does considerable traveling on her own. She recently went on a 5-week trip around the world, carrying one (yes, only ONE) 27-inch suitcase.

Reads U.S. Department
Miss Knight — in public life the director of the State Department's Passport Office and in private the wife of magazine publisher Wayne Parrish — appeared on television recently, doing a brief and incomplete demonstration of her packing techniques on "Person to Person." The result was such a flood of letters asking for a complete blueprint of her streamlined luggage and wardrobe that she now has set it down in complete detail.

"I limit myself to one suitcase whether it is for a long or short trip," she says. "For a short trip I take a small overnight case, and for a long trip I use a 27-inch suitcase."

Believes in Planning
Miss Knight is a firm believer in planning and gives herself a week's time to pack for a long trip. In spare moments she puts in such essentials as toothbrush and paste, brush, comb, manicure set, travel alarm clock, small flashlight and a cosmetics kit.

Miss Knight has reduced this last item to makeup, an all-purpose face cream, a deodorant, liquid shampoo containers (each containing enough for one shampoo) and a tube of quick-lather soap for use in hard water and other small grooming aids. She substitutes cleaning tissues for handkerchiefs.

Daily Laundry
Assembling her travel wardrobe is a longer process. She wears one set of lingerie and packs another—both made of drip-dry fabric—and a combination pajama-robe-slipper set of similar material.

"I allow nothing to interfere with a nightly schedule of doing my laundry," she says. "I take a tablespoonful of a detergent soap powder and seal it in a small envelope, allowing one envelop for each washing while on my trip."

Her outside clothes are carefully chosen—dresses, hats and shoes of one basic color with variations and accents from colorful accessories. She finds dark dresses, of course, more practical than light. For summer travel she takes dresses and suits made of easy-to-laundry synthetic fabrics.

"It is very simple to pack three or four dresses in a suitcase, providing they are not bouffant and fussy," she has found. "I am partial to drip-dry sweaters and blouses which can be made dressy with scarves or beaded collars."

I usually take two sweaters and two blouses. I take two pairs of shoes in addition to the pair in which I travel. I put my stockings, belts and gloves in the shoes to conserve space."

Her hats are chosen partly for their crush-proof qualities, and they compliment the dresses and suit.

Stole for Evening
She uses a light wool stole instead of an evening jacket. She carries a combination raincoat, hat and boots which fold into a plastic bag.

For the maintenance of her wardrobe she has a small travel iron which is convertible for use in foreign electric outlets, and a small sewing kit.

A reversible topcoat and a big travelling handbag complete the wardrobe. The handbag is large enough to hold a small jewelry case, identification papers, tickets, passport, cosmetics, a solid perfume, and such other odds and ends a woman needs often.

Buy on Trip
"It is not necessary to be over-burdened with extras," says Miss Knight, "because there are few places in the world today where you cannot purchase any of the items which may break or be mislaid. The only extra which is advisable would be eyeglasses if you need them."

In the past year, Miss Knight has done much traveling around the Passport Office's field offices throughout the country — much of the time carrying her overnight bag. In the coming months, her job will take her to passport offices in our embassies and consulates, so the 27-inch suitcase will be working overtime.

"Actually," she confesses, "I had to work this packing system out. My husband won't let me take more than one suitcase on a trip."

Stepmother Questions Social Call

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's son has just recently announced his engagement. He lives with his mother but comes to visit us often and I am very fond of him. I would like to know what we are supposed to do. His mother has already paid the conventional visit on the girl's family. As the father of the bridegroom, is my husband supposed to call on her family too, and if so, do I go with him?

Answer: I think that while it is not necessary, your husband should call on his son's fiancée's parents but you need not accompany him. You should, however, ask your stepson to bring his fiancée to your house, probably for a meal, so that you can meet her, and show your interest in the girl he has chosen to be his wife.

Girl Goes to Table
Dear Mrs. Post: When a girl and man are being shown to their table, and the man is waylaid by friends of his own who are unknown to the girl, what is the correct thing for her to do?

Answer: If a waiter is leading the way to the table, she would follow him and take her place at the table. Or if there is no waiter and there is an empty table at a short distance, she would go to it and wait for him. Correctly, he should not have stopped—certainly not for longer than a moment.

Correct Question
Dear Mrs. Post: My wife and I are living in my father's house and we share the same telephone. Whenever my father answers the telephone he always asks who is calling. My wife resents this very much and thinks it's an infringement on her privacy. Will you please give me your opinion as this is

Mortgage Money to Tighten by Fall, Some Experts Say

But Financial Sources Expect No
Serious Shortage of House Funds

Is the mortgage market about to tighten up again after easing steadily for the past seven months?

The monthly nationwide mortgage market survey of a professional magazine of the home building industry indicates that it indeed may. Up to now, prices on fixed-interest rate FHA and VA mortgages have only leveled off, not dropped. But some of the top men in the mortgage business say that tightening by fall is a possibility.

While this would probably increase the price paid for mortgage money through fatter discounts on FHA and VA loans, mortgage men do not expect a tightening to bring on a serious shortage of mortgage money.

Despite the recession, the demand for loans continues high — not only from housing but from public and private bodies as well, the survey points out. Another item which seems to indicate a tightening is the sudden drop in government bond prices. Philadelphia Mortgage Banker W. A. Clarke, Sr., who a month earlier predicted more easing, changed his mind: "Governments are off and there is considerable congestion. This definitely reflects tighter money."

Commented John Yates, vice president of Stockton, Whatley, Davin and company of Jacksonville: "We expect money to tighten up this fall and we are governing our business accordingly." Donald McGregor, executive vice president of the biggest mortgage banking firm in the U.S. — T. J. Bettes of Houston — noted: "We are in a period of change. There is a good chance of bigger discounts later this fall."

The market will also be affected by the rate of savings. It has been dropping in mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations, and has already caused some banks to curtail mortgage investment until they see which way savings will go in July and August, House & Home reports.

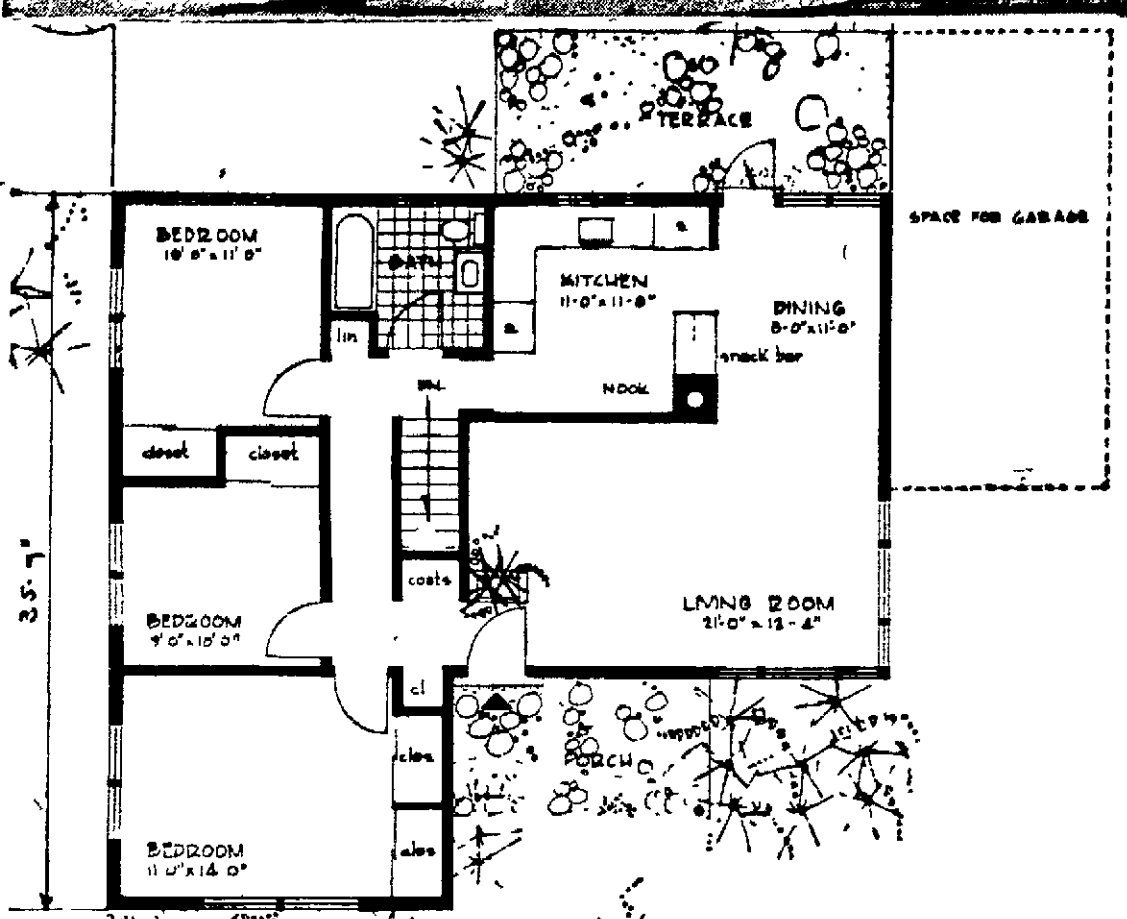

Another unknown factor which could affect the market either way: How many advance commitments will fall through because of slow sales. If few do, then it would contribute to a tightening. If many do, it would tend to keep the price of mortgages up.

Bank President Leaves Estate of $1,113,946 In Lafayette County

Darlington — A banker who died without a will left an estate worth $1,113,946, according to an inventory filed Wednesday in Lafayette county court.

Henry W. Burmeister, 87, died May 25 at Monroe. He was founder and president of Gratiot State bank and president of Citizens' State bank of Warren, Ill.

His estate will be divided equally between his children, Mrs. Hazel Geach, Warren, Ill., and Roy F. Burmeister, president of the First National bank of Monroe.

Designed in the Conservative Modern manner, this home features a full basement and 1,161 square feet of floor area. This is a small family home of distinction and charm. It has a small front porch and a rear terrace. The closeness of the bath to the kitchen is a convenience. For the name of the designer, call the Post-Crescent and ask about house plan 241.

Research Shows:

Automatic Dryer Cuts Down Work Load by 3 Hours a Week

Exactly how much time and energy will an automatic clothes dryer save you? Researchers have found that an average of 20, 8-hour days each year were saved by automatic dryer owners. This is a saving of three hours of time each week.

Further study showed that this 3-hour weekly saving of time was broken down as follows:

One hour per week was saved because clothes no longer had to be hung on the line to dry. Another half-hour was saved in sprinkling time; homemakers removed clothes from the dryer already evenly dampened for ironing.

One and one-half hours of ironing time were saved each week. Many items emerged from the dryer wrinkle-free and ready for storage.

Experts also measured the energy served when an automatic clothes dryer is used and found that:

The yearly 40-mile walk to the clothesline is reduced to zero with a dryer.

A dryer saved the amount of energy it takes to lift and lug two tons of wash to the clothesline each year.

Effort and labor used in stooping, stretching, bending, sprinkling and other laundry chores were not measured. Unmeasured also were the countless unladylike expressions once uttered when the clothesline broke, when it rained on washday, and when clothes were soiled on the line. Total energy saved is approximately as much as that expended by a major league pitcher during the baseball season!

Everything Goes Wrong In Single Morning at Tucson Auto Sales Lot

Tucson, Ariz. —(P)—Some days it just doesn't pay to get out of bed. Take the case of Les Thadden.

He went to work Tuesday at his auto sales lot and found he had a leaky roof over his office. Water dripped on his desk, making a soggy mess of contracts and other papers.

Thadden tried to start the air conditioner. It wouldn't work.

He walked to the door to stare at the rain—and noticed a car had been stolen off the lot during the night.

He tried to call the sheriff's office. The phone wouldn't work.

A few minutes later, Thadden learned a car he rented the night before was in trouble. He found the car on its side in the storm-swollen Santa Cruz river. Thadden summoned a wrecker. He was giving instructions on how to recover the car from the river when another auto zoomed by on the wet highway, splashing Thadden from head to toe.

Thadden, dripping wet, retreated to his office.

Candidate's Request For Band Shell Brings Auction in Reverse

Twin Falls, Idaho — It was an auction in reverse when Max Hanson, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, asked city council permission to use the local band shell for a rally next month.

One commissioner suggested he be charged $25 to pay for lights and cleaning up. Another said the actual cost would run $10 to $15 and moved a $15 charge. Still another suggested cutting it to $10, to encourage meetings at which voters could meet their candidates.

The upshot: the council decided to make the shell available free to political rallies. Hanson's will be the first.

Hints Offered On Compounds

When to Use Soap, Detergents Depends On Needs, Water

Confused by the dozens of soaps and detergents on the market today? The following information has been compiled to help you choose the one that will do the best job for you.

Washing compounds, whether soaps or detergents, fall into two basic categories: the all-purpose or heavy duty type, or the light-duty or fine fabric variety. Which you choose will depend on the degree of soil in your garments.

Whether it's soap or detergent, give the brand you select a thorough trial through several washings. Don't switch back and forth from soap to detergent, as they are not chemically alike and grayed clothes may result if they are mixed. Never combine the two in the same wash.

Amounts Vary

The amount of soap or detergent to use in your washer will vary according to type of clothes being washed, degree of soil, type of washing compound, and water hardness or softness. Consult package directions. This is a better yardstick than the amount of suds in the washer because some detergents are designed to be low sudsing.

If you're in doubt about when to use water softener, check with your local water department to find out what the degree of water hardness is in your area. If water hardness is over three grains, use a mechanical water softener system or packaged water softener or conditioner when you wash with soap.

Synthetic detergents will work in hard water, but if hardness is over 12 to 15 grains you will want to use a water softener, also. For best rinsing results a water softener or conditioner should be added to your automatic washer during the

Good Pruning Tools Must For Gardener

It takes more than good intentions to take care of even the small trees on the home property. Good pruning tools are a must, and the kit required is not inconsiderable.

The reliable pruning saw is No. 1 on the pruning kit parade, says R. J. McWilliams, tree expert. And this is not just any saw. The best pruning tool is one with teeth on only one side. Double-edged saws are more difficult to handle. In the hands of the amateur, they may cut in directions not intended.

First line of defense for fruit trees and deciduous shrubbery is said to be the hand pruner. This comes in two types—the snap cut or draw cut. You can suit yourself as to which to select since each will work efficiently, if of good quality.

Few weekend gardeners

Friday, August 1, 1958

Appleton Post-Crescent 15

wield a professional type long-handled pole pruner, but this instrument will be a boon to the more ambitious. It requires adroit use and should be of the type that has tempered blades that make clean, smooth cuts. These are the only kind to be considered if the unkindest cuts of all are to be spared your tree.

One of the tools most often overlooked is the pot that holds the special tree paint. All wounds one inch or more in diameter should be waterproofed.

Kitchen Livability

Electric Products Make Dreams Real

Whether an apartment dweller or a Cape Cod cottager, every woman has her dream kitchen. Now it can be a reality—with built-in livability, where dishes all but do themselves, waste foods dispose of themselves, and the whole family finds fun in everyday push-button kitchen activities. And the marvel of it is that each new appliance added to the dream finds its right place in a built-in plan.

Such a plan may have its beginning in something as simple as a new fluorescent fixture. Bigger things can come later, taking full advantage of today's straight line, squared corner styling, plus a dramatic use of color.

Because of this practical straight-line design in some new electrical appliances, the built-in trend which started with ranges and ovens, now extends to other appliances. With no curved tops, sides or back, the straight-lined appliances can be placed either flush against a wall, tightly in a corner, or in line with other appliances or cabinets.

Many appliances, including the dishwasher, can be installed either waist-high at counter level, placed beneath a work surface, or even mounted atop each other. Many designs make possible freer appliance placement to open up floor space. Wall-hung refrigerator freezers color-matched to kitchen cabinets, make cold storage space seem almost non-existent to the eye.

In addition, counter-top surface cooking units can be built in to form islands or peninsulas with plenty of space, left to make a handsome breakfast bar, serving or work counter. They also work well as room dividers, separating a dining or family area from the busy part of the kitchen.

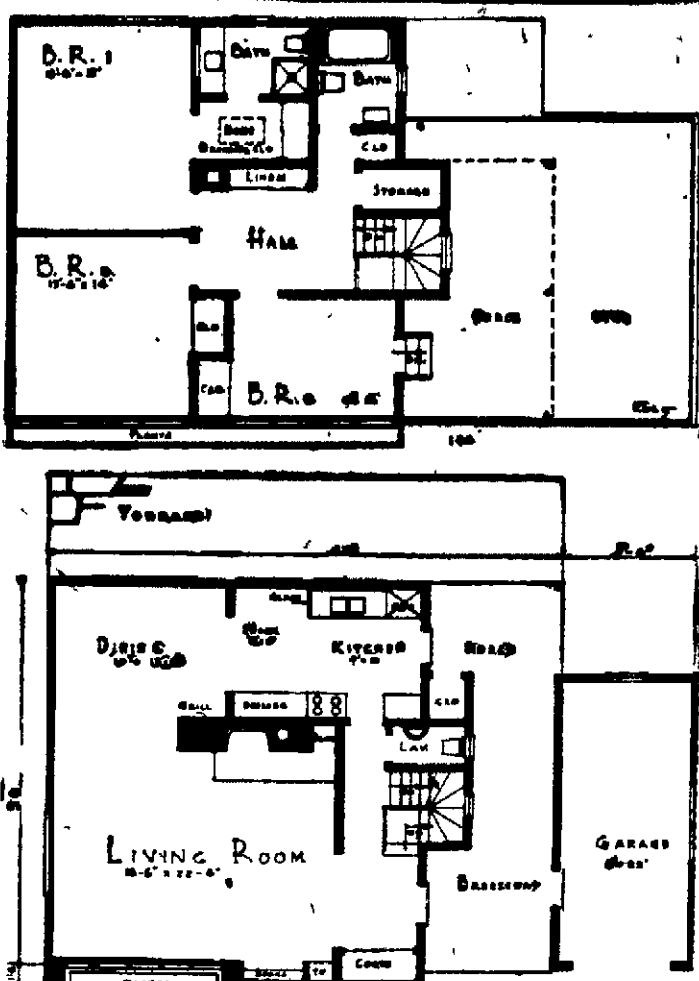

"Packaged kitchens," which also go by the term "modular," are becoming increasingly popular for new homes or kitchen remodeling.

Another approach to packaged kitchens is the pre-assembled "kitchen center"—a single unit containing range, oven, sink, built-in under-the-counter dishwasher, and storage cabinets. These centers fit easily the length of an average kitchen wall, and incorporate most kitchen necessities in one convenient strip. Other sections of the kitchen then are left free for refrigerator-freezer, dinette table and chairs.

Added to all this, the up-to-date kitchen enthusiast now has the best choice ever in colors for her kitchen and all its equipment. Charcoal grey is the most recent innovation of one manufacturer.

Another has introduced a new shade of brown to blend with wood cabinets. In one line of electric ranges, white takes on a new look startlingly contrasted against a black panel studded with illuminated signal lights, controls and switches.

No matter what type of home it is, or where it is, the new trend in modern kitchen and kitchen electric appliances means dreams do come true, whether in whole or in part at a time, when you plan to live better electrically.

Two-Story Homes Still are favored by many prospective home owners. This plan features two baths and a lavatory or powder room. It has 900 square feet of floor area on each of the first and second floors plus a garage covering 242 square feet. The plan calls for a full basement. For name of the designer, call the Post-Crescent and ask for house plan 194.

Many Effects

Wood Siding Available In Several Variations

Home owners planning exterior modernization of their homes, a project often carried out at the same time an addition is made to an old house, have a choice of numerous types of wood siding at their local lumber yards.

They can obtain effects of pattern, texture, color and line that give new distinction to an ordinary type of house.

Many new houses designed by top architects and builders depend on imaginative use of wood siding for dramatic architectural effects, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Big Appearance
Narrow widths of bevel siding give an appearance of greater size to smaller homes. Random width bevel siding, applied in regular rotation, varying from 4-inch to 10-inch boards, gives an individuality comparable on the outside to the effect of random width flooring on the inside.

Vertical siding may be used in combination with horizontal siding to give pleasing proportion to long, low houses.

The three principal kinds of wood siding are bevel, drop and vertical. Bevel, also called lap siding, is a direct descendant of clapboards. The first clapboards were rough square-edged boards lapped over each other to shed the rain. Later, they were tapered to make one edge thinner than the other and, thus, provide a tighter fit against the house frame.

Today's bevel siding is made by sawing square-edged boards diagonally to produce two wedge-shaped pieces. Bevel siding eight inches or wider is often called bungalow or colonial siding.

Rabbit Joint
Bevel siding is sometimes manufactured with the inside part of the thick or bottom edge cut away. The thin or top edge of the next piece fits into the cutaway portion to make what is called a rabbit joint.

When rabbeted bevel siding is used, the backs of the boards, lie flat against studding or sheathing and the shadowline on the exposed surface is somewhat less than provided by the plain bevel.

The exposed surfaces of all bevel siding have an outward slant.

Drop siding comes in many patterns and is machined on the edges so that each board

Here's the Answer

BY ANDREW C. LANG

Question: We have an old, large picture frame which we would like to give an antique finish. The frame is made of wood and apparently has no finish on it now. How do we get the antique effect?

Answer: The easiest way is to buy an antique glaze and brush it on like an ordinary paint. While the glaze is still wet, take a clean, dry, small paint brush and dab it up and down on the frame. Keeping wiping the brush off every few seconds. This process will remove some of the glaze and produce a textured finish, making it appear antique. When the glaze is thoroughly dry, apply a coat of sealer, which you can buy at the same time you purchase the glaze.

Question: The asbestos cement siding on our house has become dingy over the years. I've been told that ordinary house paint won't stick to asbestos-cement. Is there any type of paint that will?

Answer: There are several different paint systems that are recommended by the Asbestos Cement Products Association. The problem with asbestos cement is that the alkali in the cement ordinarily combines with the oils in conventional paints to make soaps that are extremely soluble. This endangers the paint film. The answer lies in using alkali-resistant paints. There are two types of paints which are sufficiently alkali-resistant for all surfaces. These are the solvent-thinned resin coatings and the exterior latex or emulsion coatings. The most commonly used resins in the first type of paint are derivatives or modifications of rubber. Paints made with these resins have been used for years on swimming pools, stucco and other structures made of cement.

The surface should be free of dirt, loose paint and all grease or oil. Cracked or broken units should be replaced. If there is moss or mildew, it should be removed by scrubbing with a wax-free detergent. Siding that has eroded through years of service and has a dusty fibrous surface requires special treatment. The loose dust should be removed by brushing and the surface thoroughly washed with water.

Two Coats
When it comes to actual painting, use two coats of either the solvent-thinned resin paints or the exterior latex paints. The solvent type will not bond well to a damp or wet surface. The latex paints can be applied satisfactorily to a damp surface.

There are oil masonry paints which contain modified linseed or other oils which will give satisfactory performance on weathered siding. But if there is any doubt as to the degree of weathering, play safe and use one of the first two systems. Another method of painting asbestos cement is first to apply a primer coat of a specially formulated resin paint and then follow it with a conventional oil or alkyd top coat. These primers are known as asbestos shingle primer, alkali resistant primer, brick and stucco primer, etc.

Sailors' Vocabulary

Yachting Lingo Confuses Those Who Haven't Learned the Language Early

BY MARY JENSEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — The wonderful world of sails, sailors, and their boats which all seem to come alive with the first breath of wind is a fascinating one. And too, a confusing one for those who haven't been weaned on the sailing lingo, a language apart from any other. You cannot hope to learn to sail or to be a well-informed spectator unless you learn to call things by their proper names. By doing this, enjoyment of the sport will be increased immeasurably.

To begin with, the body of the boat itself is called the hull. The front end of the boat is known as the bow, and anything in the direction of the bow is known as "forward." The back of the boat is called the stern and anything in the general direction of the stern is called "aft," "after," or "abaft."

The name of the craft is most usually seen on the transom. Basic to any sailing boat is the mast which is the vertical spar on which the sails are hoisted and the boom, a horizontal spar to which the lower edge of the mainsail (the largest one) is fastened. A removable support for the boom when the boat is not under sail is called the boomcrutch.

The right side of the boat is referred to as starboard, looking forward, and the left side is the port side. Keep the two straight by remembering that ding ring.

The windward side of the boat is the side in the general direction from which the wind is blowing and the leeward implies the direction toward which the wind is blowing.

The jib stay is a wire leading to the deck ahead of the mast to give it forward support and also on which the jib is set. Wires leading down ahead and behind the mast are always called stays.

The jib, main, and spinnaker balliards are lines running up the mast and down again for the setting (pulling up) of the jib, mainsail and spinnaker respectively. Halliards are not called ropes.

New Addition to Waterworks May Cost $385,000

Neenah Commission Cites Urgent Need in Request for Council Aid

Neenah — Expansion of the waterworks plant at an estimated cost of $385,000 was asked of the common council at an informal meeting Thursday night by the waterworks commission.

Waterworks commission members used the word "urgent" in their presentation and said they would like the project completed by June of next year. They mentioned also a project of the magnitude they propose would take about 10 to 12 months.

Included in the project would be the addition of three more filters of 1 million gallons capacity each and enlargement of the settling basin to a 4 million gallon minimum capacity. This would raise the filtering capacity from four to seven million gallons a day and would double the present settling basin capacity, which now is two million gallons.

On good days and with the use of chemical additives the settling basin could handle as much as 10 million gallons a day, Charles Abel, vice chairman of the waterworks commission, told the aldermen.

"We are facing a serious situation, not so much in the summer when we can limit lawn sprinkling but in the winter when a longer time is required for the water in the settling tank. In two winters we will have to do something as we cannot ration water in the winter," Abel stressed.

Traces Growth

With the aid of charts and slides, Abel traced the development of the waterworks plant and the various past expansion projects, pointing out also the demand for water which has grown from 180 million gallons in 1934 to over 800 million gallons now.

The new reservoir which brings storage capacity up to 3 million gallons and which was put into use July 15 came into time, Abel cited. The demand for the week beginning July 21 averaged about 5 million gallons a day, more than the output capacity of the filters and settling tank.

Mayor Chester Bell picked up this point and told the aldermen that a high demand such as that meant the city was having to draw upon its storage water each of those days in order to meet the demands for water.

"If there had been a major fire on any one of those days, we would have had to look elsewhere, possibly to Menasha, for water and take whatever they could supply," the mayor mentioned as he pointed out that both the Meyer Burstein and Sons fire and the Hardwood Products corporation fire each took a million gallons of water to fight.

Abel mentioned that recent improvements to the water plant include a new intake from Lake Winnebago which increases the capacity flow to the plant, three new filters which were added in 1953 and the reservoir.

Discuss Financing

City Clerk R. V. Hauser during the discussion on the financing of a $385,000 project said the city still owes $235,000 on the reservoir and $100,000 on the intake project. General obligation bonds were suggested for the financing since these sell at a lower rate of interest than mortgage revenue bonds.

The water department revenues would be used to pay off the interest and principal so that this project should not increase the tax rate, it was mentioned in reply to a question from Ald. Jim Dinius.

Ald. Paul Hansen inquired if there was sufficient property at the water works site for the proposed additions and was informed by Water Supt. Everett Westfahl that the site was big enough to take care of the needs for another 30 years.

The three new filters would be added opposite the three which were added in 1953 and after edge of the sail is called the leech.

At the clew, which is the corner of the sail between the foot and the leech, the jib sheets are attached. Battens are strips, usually of wood, that are placed in long thin pockets at right angles to the leech of the jib and main sail. They help to keep the sail from flapping and retain its proper shape.

In scow boats, two metal "boards" placed just outside the cockpit on the starboard and port sides of the boat replace the centerboard. When a boat is on starboard tack, that is, the wind is coming over the starboard side of the boat or from that general direction, the port board is lowered through a board box, and enters the water at the lower left side of the hull. These boards facilitate steering and keep the craft from side-slipping.

Balancing the Boat
During a heavy wind, assuming that the boat is still on starboard tack, the starboard board may also be lowered a little so that one of the crew members may "ride" it. He or she will stand on the board to keep the boat from heeling over too far, past the point where the rub rail, or wooden rail surrounding the body of the hull is under water. When you see a person hanging out over the heeled, or high, side of the boat he or she is "riding boards" to correctly balance the boat.

The same procedure is also used when the boat changes to port tack when the wind comes over the port side of the boat or from that general direction.

These are just a few of the basic sailing technicalities to enlighten the spectator who will have the opportunity to view the approaching regatta.

the settling basin would be extended out 128 feet toward the street. This part of the building would match up with the present structure and would be 128 feet long by 60 feet wide. It would come about 25 feet from the sidewalk line.

The three new filters proposed would bring to nine the number of filters at the plant and by about 1962 or 1963 it is expected another six filters will be needed to meet the demand anticipated by then.

Abel outlined that the demand for water has increased considerably in recent years, both residentially because of new appliances such as automatic washers and dishwashers that take more water and also because of expanding industrial needs.

5 Million Gallons Daily
This proposed project will not carry us much beyond 1964, Abel advised the aldermen, particularly the need for additional filters. He cited the peak demands reached last week of over 5 million gallons and as high as almost 5 1/2 million gallons on five consecutive days.

Mayor Bell commented that to exceed capacity was not advisable because of the drain it makes on the storage supply. Normally the filters are washed every 105 hours and it takes about 25,000 gallons to wash them, he said.

But because more water is being demanded, there is not enough time for the water in the settling tank to settle out much of the sediment. This places a stronger job on the filters and they must be washed much more often, consequently using more water and lowering the production of the water itself.

Lately the filters have had to be washed as frequently as every 7 1/2 hours. Thus, he said, we are washing the filters five or six times as much and often 14 times more than we formerly did and wasting that much more water. And that is not economical, he emphasized.

Abel also mentioned the waterworks plant has been built up from $400,000 to an equity of $1,223,000 before the commission had to come to the council for money. Much of its earnings have been plowed back into distribution, such as extension of mains into newly annexed and developed areas, rather than into the plant, it was mentioned.

No Manhours Increase
Westfahl commented that the plant has increased its output without an increase in manhours worked and would not need more manhours for the proposed addition.

Ald. Peter Fara mentioned that the availability of an adequate water supply was one factor strongly considered by any industry which is considering locating in a city.

A cost breakdown for the project supplied to the aldermen showed estimated expenses of $68,000 for piping and installation, $45,000 for equipment, including the setting and piping, $5,000 for excavation, $80,000 for the settling tanks, $40,000 for the filters, concrete and building housing the filters, $80,000 for the building over the old settling basin, $27,000 for controls and mixing equipment

2 Men Make Bet, Menasha Police Turn Out Winner

Menasha — The winner of a bet between two men, one who said he could swim across Little Lake Butte des Morts while the other said he couldn't, turned out to be the Menasha police department who collected $19 in fines and costs from each of the gamblers this morning.

William King, 48, 209 Kaukauna street, and Jack Murphy 39, 119 Edna avenue, Neenah, forfeited $19 bonds for being disorderly. They were arrested at 2:10 Thursday morning after police received a complaint that someone was swimming in the lower lake and making a lot of noise.

King bet Murphy $20 to $10 that he could make it across the lake. When he was arrested, King had traveled 25 feet from the shore at the north end of Lock street. Two other men were standing on shore holding the bets.

Police Chief Peter Clark said that those who like to swim should confine their energies to the municipal swimming pool. Anyone caught swimming in unauthorized areas will be taken into court and fined, he warned.

The chief pointed out King could have drowned as the area he was swimming in was full of high weeds.

The conference room is equipped with a curtained stage at one end, a projection booth and a tack board wall for displays. There are other smaller conference rooms spotted throughout the building.

Riverside Players Present Melodrama 'The Drunkard'

BY CAROL RICHARDSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — Seventeen members of the Riverside players combined their efforts to produce William H. Smith's melodrama, "The Drunkard" before a near-capacity audience Thursday evening at the Riverside park pavilion.

Authentic costumes representing the Victorian era of the late 1800's were worn by the characters who were intended by the playwright to convey the moral message of the play.

An appreciative audience was on hand to cheer the hero, played by Gordon Mortensen, obvious accusation, "You have been drinking!"

Ken Anderson is director of the melodrama and his assistant is Mrs. Clarence Bredendick. The play will be repeated at 8:30 this evening and again on Saturday evening and tickets will be available at the recreation building and from cast members at 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for children.

Between the five acts of the play vaudeville-type entertainment was presented by cast members and other performers. One of the highlights of the evening was Diana Lintner's rendition of "Up in a Balloon, Boys," presented as between-acts fare.

Community singing led by director Anderson and by Gordon Mortensen held the attention of the audience during the intermissions and maintained the evening's Gay 90's spirit.

Judge Urges Use Of Whipping Post

Tampa, Fla. — A county judge urges the use of a whipping post for wife beaters, juvenile delinquents and non-support offenders.

"A public whipping at the door of the courthouse would have the greatest deterrent effect on these offenders," Judge L. A. Grayson said.

In juvenile cases, Grayson urged that the sheriff administer the whipping, "not a brutal one, but one designed for humiliation."

"These cases," he said, "should be put out there in public view with the sheriff laying it on where the mother and father should have done it."

The judge also said that wives should be given a chance to use the whip on husbands convicted of non-support and wife beating.

Escaped Lion Scared By Group of Children

Malibu, Calif. — An escaped lion met a group of children playing in the street Wednesday night, and who got scared? The lion.

The 350-pound beast jumped through an open window into the house of its owner, animal trainer Merrill W. Heuer, who exhibits him at carnivals and fairs. Heuer, suddenly, jumped out another window.

For more than two hours the lion tore around inside the house, ripping furniture, clawing draperies and emitting blood-chilling roars. Heuer finally lured him into a make-know how the animal got out.

Finds Vicuna Coat In Boston Mails

Boston — A vicuna coat is resting today in the Boston post office's dead letter office, lost in the mails.

The valuable garment bears no tag, wrapper or other clue indicating who sent it to whom.

Supt. Timothy Donahue said if the proper claimant fails to appear, he will place it among stray articles offered for sale in the next quarterly postal auction. Donahue indicated he would frown upon any offer under $500.

Vicuna coats recently were highly publicized in testimony before the legislative committee that Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine once gave one to Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

First Warm Water Tuna Caught in Alaska Gulf

Kodiak, Alaska — A tuna, which prefers tropical waters, has been caught this far north for the first time.

A large fish caught in the nets of a Gulf of Alaska salmon seiner Monday was positively identified as tuna today by biologists.

The tuna weighed 15 pounds, was about 27 inches long with a girth of about 20 inches.

The surprise catch substantiated reports several weeks ago of the sighting of a school of fish, presumed to be tuna, off Yakutat, far to the south-east.

Oceanographers have speculated that an unexplained up-swing in the warm waters of the Japanese current early in 1957 is bringing the fish north.

The arguments of Walker, Bob Sedlak (21) and Gene Wallace (visible over Sedlak's shoulder) apparently convinced Hatch they were right as he allowed Walker first base. ## Raiders Trip Davenport, 3-2

Burlington Breaks Slump With Double Win Over Winona

By The Associated Press
League-leading Cedar Rapids put an end to Davenport's winning streak and Burlington snapped out of its skid in the Three-I league Thursday night.

Joe Trenary smacked a home run in the last of the ninth inning as Cedar Rapids broke Davenport's 5-game winning spree, 3-2. He also homered in the fifth.

Bob Dudley came to the rescue of Bob Bots and put down a Day-Sox bid with two out in the ninth. Davenport had the bases loaded when Dudley retired Chuck Stacey after Stacey had hit a long drive that barely missed being a homer, curving foul.

Burlington, loser of four straight, came out of its slump to sweep a doubleheader from Winona, 5-4 and 4-3. Jim Brewer posted his first victory in five weeks in the opener as Jim Woods helped with a homer. Winona wasted Tom McDonald's homer in the nightcap when Bob Moore notched his eighth pitching victory.

Leg Fractures Bench Norm Jarock for Year

Packer Rookie Is Injured in Major Scrimmage

BY ART DALEY
Green Bay Press-Gazette Sports Editor
Green Bay — The Green Bay Packers' first major scrimmage of the 1958 season Thursday afternoon was marred by the loss of Norm Jarock, the St. Norbert college flash, who suffered fractures of his lower leg and foot and a severely dislocated ankle.

Jarock had sliced outside his own left end and advanced about three yards when Billy Kinard and Bobby Dillon hit him, the injury coming when one of the tacklers fell on his leg.

Jarock, the Packers' tenth draft choice who ranked as the nation's leading small-college ground gainer and total yards leader last fall, will be lost for the season. He was one of the candidates for a running-back position.

Wanted Career
A 195-pounder who stands six feet tall, Jarock wanted to be a Packer ever since he started lugging a football at Pulaski High in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference.

After treatment on the field from Trainer "Bud" Jorgensen, Jarock was taken to St. Vincent hospital by Prehite Hign Coach Bill Jersart who has been helping Jorgensen.

While Coach Ray McLean liked the tempo of the scrimmage—meaning the zest for rough action—he quickly called a halt to things a few plays after Jarock's injury, when Ernie Danjean, sophomore linebacker, hurt his hip. Ernie was grassed for a couple of minutes but returned for the wind-up signal drills.

There were several bruise and bump cases, including Ken Irwin, Wyoming.

Sadowski Gets Call Tonight

BY JIM VAN HORN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One had inning—that's all it took for the Fox Cities Foxes to drop a close contest to the Green Bay Bluejays at Goodland field Thursday night, 4-1, before an Elks' Booster night crowd of 2,093, which got its money's worth in a well-played tilt.

The inning which was the Foxes' undoing was the eighth, when the Bluejays broke a 1-1 tie on a 3-run homer by Gene Wallace. The number eight became bad news for Rene "Babe" Nodarse, the victim of the uprising, as he suffered his eighth loss against as many wins in going all the way.

Tonight (8:30) the Foxes will send righthander Ted Sadowski (5-7) to the mound to oppose Green Bay's Bob Sedlak (11-11) in an effort to halt the Jays' 3-game winning streak. Tonight is Couples' night, with couples admitted for $1.00.

Stops Howard
Nodarse held the Bluejays hitless for five innings before the eighth, after giving up a homer in the second to Andy Van Der Velde. Using an assortment of curves, changes of pace, and low, outside pitches, Nodarse cooled Green Bay's tall, homer-blasting Frank Howard, who went hitless in four trips to the plate, striking out twice.

Lefty Emmy Unzicker, allowing six hits, earned the win, his sixth in nine decisions. He needed help from Ed Strickel, who came in the ninth inning and forced Bob Van Dyke to ground out, ending the game and a Foxes' threat.

In contrast to several of the Foxes' recent appearances, the game was all that could be asked for afield, featuring difficult, almost impossible catches by both sides. A good testimonial to this is the fact that all the runs were scored on homers, including one by the Foxes' John Marr, who now has hit eight, five within the past week.

Green Bay Opens
Green Bay opened the scoring in the second on Van Der Velde's homer over the scoreboard. After the blast, Wade Arnold singled, Nate Smith doubled, but the Foxes squelched.

Menasha broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth to score its winning runs. After Bill Gammy singled, Dave Robinson forced him at second but then stole second himself. Tom Remmel and Paul Meyer walked, Bill Becker flied out, and Jim Rueckl singled to score both runs. Meyer was thrown out trying to score a third.

Bill Steger went all the way for Menasha, striking out 10 and walking four. Losing pitcher Gordy Boeck relieved starter Bill Koenen in the sixth.

3 Linemen, Halfback Quit 49ers' Camp

Moraga, Calif.—The San Francisco 49er rookie squad was trimmed today to 23 plus 12 veterans after three linemen and a halfback left the squad for home.

Linemen Stewart Pell of North Carolina, Fred Prezioso of Purdue and Bruce Hartman from Luther, all draft choices, quit Thursday along with Pete Nutesch, a free agent, and bump cases, including Ken Irwin, Wyoming.

Milwaukee Left Fielder Wes Covington makes a nifty 1-handed catch off the fence, robbing Los Angeles' Carl Furillo of a home run in Thursday's game in Milwaukee. Also robbed were the two boys behind the fence, waiting for the ball with gloves outstretched. The Braves won 4-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Burdette Faces Giants Tonight in Opener of Critical 4-Game Set

Pizarro's 4-Hitter Beats Dodgers, 4-1, Hikes Milwaukee's Lead to Full Game

Milwaukee — (AP) — With the scent of World Series money beginning to perfume the summer air, the Braves will start with Lew Burdette as Milwaukee and San Francisco tangle in the first critical series of the National League race.

With another victory inscribed on the record books by one of their young pitchers, this time Juan Pizarro, the Braves today once more lead the league by a full game.

The young Pizarro labored manfully Thursday to just about crush all doubt about his major league ability as he tossed the Braves to a 4-1 triumph over the last Los Angeles Dodgers.

Burdette Hurls
The Milwaukee hero in the last fall classic, Burdette will take the mound tonight in the opener of a 4-game set that could go a long way toward deciding which team will oppose the New York Yankees this October.

Right-hander Burdette has not been the same since he lost in 14 innings on July 21. But then he did things he wasn't expected to do in whipping Yankees three times last fall.

He'll take a 9-8 record to the hill tonight, and will be opposed by either youthful southpaw Mike McCormick or Ruben Gomez, a right-hander with a 6-7 record. McCormick is 8-2.

A sweep of the series by either team would put it in position to go the rest of the way with a bit more ease than has marked recent weeks when the Giants and Braves had traded the lead, sometimes on a day-to-day basis.

Not Indicated
But a sweep is not indicated by the season records. The Braves have a 7-5 edge so far, and are 3-3 in Seals stadium, and 4-2 in Milwaukee. The Braves' advantage at home contrasts with their overall record of 26 victories and 23 defeats in County stadium, while they are 28-19 on the road.

Carl Wiley, 4-3, and like Burdette, 1-0 against the Giants, probably will work Saturday, Sunday Warren Spahn, 13-7.

Bobby Brue Beats John De Young in State Amateur, 6-5

Archie Wallin Ruled Ineligible After Gaining Semi-Finals

Milwaukee—(AP)—Archie Wallin of Madison, one of the semi-finalists in the Wisconsin State Amateur Golf tournament, was ruled ineligible today to continue in the meet.

Walter Gaedtkke, president of the Wisconsin State Amateur Golf association, said Wallin had moved to Wisconsin from Winnetka, Ill., last December and therefore did not fill the 1-year residency requirement for participation. Le Roy May of Racine, beaten by Wallin, will take his place against favored Bobby Brue in the semi-final round.

Lower Bracket
Archie Dadian of West Allis, and Dick Sucher of Milwaukee, clashed in the lower bracket.

In the junior division, Tom Nelson of Green Bay was paired against Tom Anderson of Beloit, and Ed Garvey of Burlington, met Ken Williams of Milwaukee.

The competition to decide the finalists was for 36 holes.

Brue has been the favorite since his defeat of defending

LC-K Tips Hortonville 9-0 for 17th Victory

Mehlberg, Harke Toss 1-Hitter in Exhibition

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Kimberly — Faye Mehlberg and Al Harke combined to toss a 1-hitter at Hortonville and led the Little Chute-Kimberly team to a 9 to 0 exhibition victory here Thursday night.

The win was the 17th of the season for the LC-K team of the Fox River Valley league. It has suffered only two setbacks.

The only hit for Hortonville — the BABA Southern Division — was Larry Huebner's clean shot to left center in the first inning. After that only four men reached base, three on errors and one on a walk.

Works 6 Innings
Mehlberg worked the first six frames and received credit for the win. Harke came into finish the game, blanking the losers in the last three innings. Mehlberg struck out eight and walked one while Harke recorded five strikeouts and gave no passes.

Thiel was the starter for Hortonville and he lasted until the sixth when Huebner took over. Thiel was rocked for seven of the winners' runs and 11 hits. Huebner displayed a good fast ball and curve and allowed only two hits and struck out four.

Fourth Inning
LC-K started out with a run in the first inning when Bob Vanden Burgt doubled, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Roy Vander Wylst's sacrifice fly. Another single tally scored in the third when Vanden Burgt singled and moved to second on an infield mis-cue. Floyd Hammen sent him home with a double.

In the fourth the Papermakers put together four hits and the threat as both Bob Parker and Unzicker grounded out to "Potato" Pascual, who made a one-hand stab of the latter's hot grounder. In this inning the only runners reached third — outside of the homers — during the entire ball game.

The Foxes came back in their half of the inning as Marr homered. Jim Nisewonger was safe on an error on Green Bay third baseman Earl Robinson and went to second on an attempted pickoff throw which got by first baseman Van Der Velde. He was stranded, however, as Hodarse forced Billy Bone, who had walked, at second.

The Foxes threatened in the third on successive singles by Don Dantoni and "Tex" Taylor, but a double play quickly put an end to the inning.

Fatal Eighth

Little else happened until the fatal eighth, when Parker led off with a single, Unzicker sacrificed him to second, O. S. Walker was hit by a pitched ball, and Wallace smacked the 3-2 pitch over the fence. Bone's sparkling play on Van Der Velde's smash to second, which the second baseman threw to first to end the inning, seemed almost anticlimactic.

The Foxes made one last try in the ninth as Pascual doubled to the center field wall. Marr was robbed of a base hit as shortstop Wallace made a leaping, one-hand, head-over-heels start of his line drive to left. Nisewonger walked, but then Strickel came in to put out the fire.

The game was preceded by a welcome to the park from Ray McClone, president of the Foxes. Marty Van Rooy, of the Wisconsin Elks' association, made a short speech outlining the Elks' disabled veterans' program. The Appleton City band provided music during the pregame warmup and in the first few innings. "Kelly" Weller was in charge of the affair.

three walks to score five runs and take a comfortable lead.

Jim Kilsdonk opened the frame with a triple to left, Ron Kunzman singled him home, Mehler fanned for the first out and Hank Peerenboom walked. Vanden Burt sacrificed the runners to second and third and Hammen came through with a single to score both men.

Vander Wylt then drew a pass as did Frank Keuler and they moved to second and third on another passed ball. Elmer Kobs then batted out a single for the fourth and fifth runs.

Final Tallies

The final two tallies for LC-K came in the eighth off Huebner as a walk, fielders choice and sharp double by Ron Weigman accounted for the runs.

Hammen and Kilsdonk led the LC-K attack with two for three while Vanden Burt and Kunzman also had a pair of hits.

Saturday night the Paper-makers will meet an old timers team at 8 o'clock at the Kimberly field.

Wallin played par golf in quarterfinal action to triumph over Leroy May of Racine, 4-3. Wallin had birdies on the fifth, eighth, eleventh and fifteenth holes to set up the victory. He finished the first nine in 35 and was 2-up at the turn. He sank a 40-foot putt on the eighth.

Dadian, the Wisconsin Public Links champion, scored a 1-up victory over tournament medalist Jack Hessler of Milwaukee. Sucher won a 2 and 1 triumph over Dr. Durward Baker of Milwaukee, in their quarterfinal match.

Juniors

In the junior division, Nelson scored a 2 and 1 victory over defending champion Marty Gharitty, Jr., of Shawano. Nelson ousted Gharitty with a 25-foot birdie putt on the seventeenth. Gharitty had medalist honors in qualifying.

Nelson took the first two holes from Gharitty in the afternoon and strengthened his margin to 4-up by the time they arrived at the thirteenth. Gharitty then swept three holes in a row but Nelson's putt ended Gharitty's dream of a third title.

Anderson worked into the semifinals with a 3 and 2 victory over Bill Johnson of Racine. Garvey had a 5-4 victory over Gibby Larson of Waukesha and Williams ousted Tim Zwetzer of Madison, in 19 holes.

here," he yelled while walking through the dressing room.

Gary Knafelc, the left end by trade, was tried considerably at slot back, giving him a shot at more blocking and catching the numerous short passes. He shared slot back with Carleton Massey and Gene Cook, a rookie.

Joe Johnson, slot back with Ron Kramer last year, was held out because of a pulled muscle.

Frank Purnell bolted for some 15 yards through the line one time and everybody seemed to have an awful time tackling him. About 225 pounds, Fullback Frank just seems too big to bring down when he's moving fast.

On the play Danjean was hurt, tiny Jim Shanley made a long gain on a quick shot up the middle. The 170-pounder runs low.

Quarterback "Babe" Parilli, who has been passing exceptionally well, overthrew Billy Howton once when Howton had broken into the clear. To which McLean asked of "Babe," "We don't miss those, do we Babe?"

Odd sight: Hank Bullough, an offensive guard, at defensive end.

Bob Burris played a corner-backer spot in a newcomer defensive unit despite loss of 10 pounds due to the flu. Earl Miller was at the corner and Howie Dars and Bobby Lance were the deep backs. In the other defensive unit Hank Gremminger and Billy Kinard were at the corners and Al Romine and Bobby Dillon deep.

Veryl (Jug) Switzer, who reported to training headquarters at St. Norbert college yesterday noon, worked lightly while the others scrimmaged. "I'll be ready soon," "Jug" said. He's fresh out of the air force and looks in excellent shape.

McLean announced that there'll be another scrimmage Saturday afternoon. And Sunday will be a light day.

Jorgensen was unhappy with the "availability" of the dressing room when Jarock was hurt. He wanted to give Norm some preliminary treatment but he couldn't get Jarock (in a car) through the loaded parking lot. He decided to send him directly to the hospital via Desart.

The fight was scheduled Tuesday as a substitute for one cancelled after a month-long buildup. Tony Anthony of New York, a leading light-heavyweight contender, was to tangle with unranked Archie McBride of Trenton, N.J., but it was called off when Anthony was declared physically unfit.

Bahama, 25, of Bimlmi, is ranked ninth among the middleweights. He has won 51 of his 59 bouts, 15 by knockouts.

Recovery Definite

Foresee Return to Pre-Recession Business Peaks by Winter or Spring

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Sports Business Writer

Washington — Is the recession over? Not yet, by a good many months.

But the recovery definitely is in prospect, government economists believe, and so far it has been stronger and clearer than they had expected.

One White House adviser now expects total national output to regain its pre-recession rate—about $445 billion a year—around the turn of the year.

Some See Slower Climb

Some others, it should be noted, foresee a slower climb. But there is a growing disposition to believe the recession will be over this winter or next spring, in the sense that business barometers by then will be back to last summer's historic peaks.

Even that will not mean a full employment economy. At least a year and a half of economic growth will have been lost—the growth that is necessary to absorb the steady increase in size of the labor force. Productivity, or the rate of output per man, will have risen also, so that fewer workers will be needed to produce the same volume of goods and services.

For both those reasons unemployment is expected to remain high for some time after business activity begins to establish new records.

“It's possible we'll see full employment again by the middle of 1959, or perhaps by the third quarter,” said one top administration adviser privately.

May Need Revision

It is conceded that all forecasts may have to be revised if the United States becomes more deeply involved in military operations in the Middle East. But barring a shooting war, the rate of military buildup is not expected to accelerate sharply, and the administration's economists are not building their forecasts on a big military spurge or a war-style inflation.

Some metal prices have risen, but the general reaction to the Mid-East crisis has been one of calm and restraint.

The business upturn has been stronger than almost any government official had been predicting. “Even the optimists have been surprised at the actual rate of pickup,” one ranking economist said today.

July a Test

Many had expected July to provide a major test. It is traditionally a month of “lull” and, in some industries, of mass vacations.

Though most of the July statistics are not yet in, it already is obvious that there was little if any letdown.

April apparently was the bottom month of the recession, and the rebound in May and June was robust; business has been recovering even more rapidly than it slumped earlier in the year.

However, a relapse would not be surprising. In the two previous postwar recessions, especially that of 1949, there were brief sags in industrial production, personal income, and factory orders after the recovery apparently had begun.

Reassuring Factors

But this time, several factors are considered reassuring. Wholesale inventories were steady in June for the first time since last November, and international uncertainties may dissuade manufacturers from letting their stocks get any lower.

The automobile industry is approaching the new model season with its stocks of 1958 models well trimmed down. If the 1959 models sell disappointingly, the major impact will be felt next spring rather than this fall.

Government spending meantime will be rising as new weapons programs hit their stride. The treasury will be running a 12 billion dollar deficit—an invitation to inflation and to speculative investment.

Homebuilding is at the best rate in three years and seems to be picking up speed. Farmers' income is expected to run well ahead of 1957, in spite of bumper crops which may depress prices this fall. On the other hand, unemployment still is distressingly high, profits are sharply off, and the prospect of continuing retail price inflation may discourage the revival of buying demand.

Metals Pace Market Rise

Price Boosts Spur Trading in Copper And Aluminum Shares

New York — Aluminum and copper prices a stock market recovery today in fairly active trading.

Aluminum price boosts announced by Alcoa and Reynolds Metals spurred aluminum shares. Coppers were touched off by a price hike for the red metal at the custom smelter level.

Stocks in these metal groups advanced from one to around three points. Elsewhere in the list, leading issues posted gains of fractions to around a point. A wide assortment of small losses remained from the market's early irregularity.

The market was mixed at the start and the ticker tape fell behind transactions for nine minutes as opening blocks were traded. Then turnover slowed until the base metal stocks started to move.

Steels were either lower or slightly changed following their recent spurt on higher steel prices. Rails and utilities were mixed. Oils and aircrafts made some gains as did a few chemicals and other selected issues.

Alcoa added about three points. Aluminum Ltd., Reynolds Metals and Kaiser Aluminum each moved forward well over a point apiece.

Gains of a point-plus were posted by Kennecott and Anaconda. International Nickel's rise was about a point.

American Telephone rose well over a point, touching a new 1958 high, in fairly active dealings.

Gains of a point or better were made also by Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, American Cyanamid, Amerasia and Gamble Skogmo.

Questions Hover Over Sunken Liner

Blame for Collision of Stockholm, Andrea Doria Remains Unsettled

New York — After two years, two major questions still hover above the sunken hulk of the Italian luxury liner, Andrea Doria.

One of them is: Who is to blame for the fearful collision with the Swedish motorship Stockholm off the coast of Massachusetts two years ago. Months of court hearings failed to settle the issue. It probably never will be.

The second question may or may not be answered in the years to come: Can the Andrea Doria be salvaged or resurrected from the depths of the Atlantic?

Meanwhile, one major task made necessary by the crash is all but ended. For more than a year attorneys for insurance companies have been busy settling death, injury and cargo claims.

Claimants will receive a total of about $6 million. They originally asked about 116 million. Only a few claims remain to be settled.

Foreign underwriters also have paid the Italian line some 14 million for the loss of the Andrea Doria, and the Swedish-American line received a million for repairs to the smashed bow of the Stockholm.

The largest death settlement went to the four small children of a prominent well-to-do couple who perished in the sinking. It was for $175,000. The figure was predicated on the education and style of living the children normally could have expected the parents to provide until they reached adulthood.

It was at 11:09 p.m. on July 25, 1956, that the two great liners came together in a busy ship lane some 45 miles south of Nantucket Island, Mass. The extra-strong ice-cutter prow of the Stockholm thundered into the fore part of the Andrea Doria and pierced far inside the ship.

Amazing Rescue
In the next hours an amazing sea rescue took place as the Andrea Doria slowly sank. Ships converged at high speed from all directions and by morning all but 45 of the Doria's 1,706 passengers and crew had been removed.

The death toll finally was established at 50 — 45 on the Doria and 5 on the Stockholm.

Since then, two others died from injuries attributed to the mishap, boosting the death total to 52.

Hundreds of lawsuits were filed in the wake of the collision.

Analysis of Specimens
Specimens from all suspect trees will be sent to Madison for further analysis.

Larry M. Fenton, of the state agricultural department, suggested in reports after the survey that trees be trimmed and that a 2-day check of Appleton, pruned each year and that a total of 2,900 trees were wood and dead and dying trees checked in Kaukauna. Eleven be destroyed to prevent breed-weakened trees were found there, 5 in the city and 6 in the Kaukauna area.

A Spare Tire Can be Used as a life preserver if a little knowledge and presence of mind is used. Here Kathy Deutsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deutsch, 423 Park drive, Neenah, removes the spare from the rear of the family station wagon. It makes good sense to keep the tire inflated—have it checked occasionally—and at the beach, loosen it and keep it handy.

Kathy Rolls the Tire to the Water, remembering that it is heavy and rough and could injure someone if thrown at a swimmer. If the rescuer cannot swim, push the tire forward with a pole—and push it slowly and accurately.

Kathy Approaches a Swimmer in trouble—acted by Steve Stulp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyall C. Stulp, Adella Beach, Neenah. Tests have shown that a spare tire will easily support up to three or four persons when it is used as a life preserver or life raft. However, remember that the tire is not a substitute for a floating toy—it is too heavy and rough and can cause injuries.

With Steve Holding on to the spare tire, Kathy kicks them both to shore. A dangerous situation has been solved with the everyday equipment on the family car. However, never consider a spare tire or any other floating object a substitute for swimming. Surest way to avoid drownings is to have every member of the family a competent swimmer and Red Cross trained in life-saving. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Tallest Mountain Peak of North America in Alaska

BY RAMON COFFMAN

The tallest mountain peak in North America is in Alaska, 150 miles southwest of the city of Fairbanks. It is known as Mount McKinley, and rises almost four miles above sea level.

The second tallest peak in North America is Mount Logan, in the southwestern corner of Canada's Yukon territory. Mount Logan is only a few hundred feet less tall than Mount McKinley.

Q. Why did some persons, in the past century, call Alaska "Seward's icebox"?

A. Alaska used to belong to Russia. In a treaty negotiated by William H. Seward, American secretary of state, an arrangement was made for the United States to buy Alaska for $7,200,000 in gold.

That accounts for the Seward part of the nickname. The "ice box" part arose from the fact that Alaska has vast areas covered with snow and ice, including enormous glaciers.

Many Americans supposed that the purchase of Alaska was a mistake. Another nickname for Alaska was "Seward's Folly."

Q. In the light of events since that time, was the purchase wise or foolish?

A. From the American viewpoint, it appears to have been an excellent investment. From the viewpoint of Russia, the sale must seem to have been a mistake.

Since the purchase, 91 years ago, Alaska has produced minerals to the value of about $850 million. Most of the riches have come from the mining of gold but many other important minerals have been obtained, including copper, platinum, tungsten, silver, iron, zinc and tin.

In addition, there are good fishing waters around Alaska's coast, providing salmon, halibut and other fish. The forty-ninth state has several million acres of good timber land.

U. S. Facing Dilemma in Middle East Due to Lack of Policy, Lippmann Says

As things stand at this moment, the notion of a summit meeting in the heart of New York City has the character of one of these night-mares in which one feels compelled to do what one desperately does not want to do. At this time, a public confrontation between Eisenhower and Khrushchev would be a ghastly spectacle, almost certain to poison the air still further with charges and countercharges. Moreover, there are great risks that the local police would not be able to maintain perfect law and order during the visit of a man who has in the cosmopolitan city of New York so many embittered enemies. Beyond that, there does not now exist as between Washington and Moscow a basis for negotiation. Both have talked themselves into extreme positions from which it is most awkward to make any concession.

Yet the fact is that the president has been pushed and pulled by the British government, and by widespread public opinion in Germany, in Scandinavia, in Japan, and elsewhere, to a grudging acceptance of the idea of a summit meeting on the Middle East. Why, we must ask ourselves, do Eisenhower and Dulles find themselves between the devil and the deep blue sea, between having a conference which would now be dangerous and refusing to have one which is dangerous too?

No Policy
They find themselves in this dilemma because they have no Middle East policy and have therefore lost the diplomatic initiative. The right and effective answer to Khrushchev's call for a summit conference was not to refuse it and leave it there, was not to accept it and to be entangled from there on. The right answer would have been to propose the terms of a settlement which included but extended beyond the withdrawal of the marines. Such a proposal would be something substantial to talk about in place of the talk about where and when to talk.

Unfortunately, we do not have negotiable terms of settlement to propose. The Anglo-American intervention in the Lebanon and Jordan was carried out to prevent their collapse. But this was a hurried reaction to the unexpected news from Iraq. It was not a deliberate act of policy.

We find ourselves, therefore, in a dead end street. The presence of our troops not only does not promise a settlement of the revolutionary condition which caused us to send them in—the longer the troops stay, the harder it will be to withdraw them without precipitating the disaster they are meant to prevent.

School of Thought
Thus, it is true that neither the Lebanon nor Jordan can be stabilized and made secure without a wide settlement beyond their frontiers.

There is a school of thought both here and in Britain which argues that the only settlement which is acceptable and which will really settle anything will be one which followed a restoration in Iraq and the elimination of Nasser. They would do now what Eden and Mollet attempted to do at Suez some two years ago. They are prepared to defy the Soviet Union and they would by force of arms establish a British-American protectorate in the Middle East.

There is a kind of logic in this view. But those who hold it are living in the wrong century. Relatively speaking, particularly in the Middle East which borders on Russia, the Soviet Union is incomparably a sale must seem to have been a mistake.

stronger power than was Czarist Russia in the 19th century. The Arab revolution, of which Nasser is the most conspicuous but not the only champion, did not exist at all in the imperial days of the last century. Moreover, and this must not be overlooked, the democracies of the North Atlantic Treaty organization must be considered. They cannot be counted upon to go all the way in case of a military showdown over an Arab country in the Middle East.

New Powers
If, therefore, the day is past and gone forever when the Middle East can be stabilized by western military power, we must seek an accommodation with the new powers in the Middle East—namely with the Soviet Union and with Nasser's confederation.

What other line of policy is conceivable? None, unless it can be called a policy to do nothing but dig in where we are in the Lebanon and in Jordan, and for the rest to trade insults with Nasser and Khrushchev. We shall get the worst of the exchange of insults, in that it is always easier to denounce intervention than to defend it. Let us have no illusions then that we can dig in, and sit it out hoping that something better will turn up.

Unless there is a reasonably prompt settlement in the Lebanon with the marines withdrawing, their continuing presence will embarrass us everywhere in the world. They were sent in order to prove to the Turks and the Pakistanis and others that our military promises will be honored. But if the marines stay on and become an army of occupation, there will be some serious second thought not only among the nations guaranteed but also here among ourselves who must provide the guarantees.

It is, therefore, a very great interest, one might without exaggeration call it a vital interest, of the United States to work out by negotiation an honorable exit for the marines. This may be impossible, given the revolutionary character of the Nasser movement. But it may not be impossible, if it is seriously and thoroughly attempted, given on the one hand the military weakness of the Arab states and on the other their great need of the west in the oil business and in their economic development.
